When Casey Dents Hosshide

"Then from the gladdened multitude went up a joyous yell, It rumbled in the mountain-tops it rattled in the dell, It struck upon the hillside and rebounded on the plain; For Casey, mighty Casey was advancing to the bat.

There was ease in Casey's manner as he stepped into his place, There was pride in Casey's bearing, and a smile upon his face; And when, responding to the cheers, he lightly doffed his hat No stranger in the crowd could doubt 'twas Casey at the bat."

The concrete roads of Illinois would stretch, if extended in an eighteen foot band, from Los Angeles to New York and from New York to Florida.

More coal was used in generating electric power in Illinois last year than in any other state except Pennsylvania—5,888,766 tons.

Teatro del Lago Scores a "Homer" at First of Week

Baseball never gave its fans a greater thrill than the one that was contributed some thirty odd years ago. It happened at the old Polo Grounds while New York was playing Pittsburgh in the last game of an exciting series.

From the very start everything had been nip-and-tuck. But by the end of the eighth inning, even the most loyal Giant rooter freely conceded the game to Pittsburgh. Then, a funny thing happened. Two weak hitters got on base and Casey, mightiest of the diamond giants, strode to the home plate with a wicked cudgel. His eyes emitted sparks and the poor opposition pitcher prayed for rain. But nothing came and the umpire shouted, "Play ball!"

His first horsehide crossed the plate, as did the second. Casey had two strikes on him and the mob implored him to knock the cover off the next ball. He set himself and took a mighty swing. Never had such a prodigious effort been made, but the ball wasn't even near the willow. Pittsburgh gave a sigh of relief. The game was theirs.

Casey won the "royal razzberry" and went to the locker room in a daze but the public never knew that Casey was exonerated because a trick ball was found to have been used by the smoky city pitcher!

Don't believe a word of the above until you see "Casey at the Bat," Wallace Beery's screamingly funny comedy, arriving at Teatro del Lago, Monday and Tuesday. Paramount has given its new star a great story and a superb cast. Hector Turnbull, featured producer, wrote the story and supervised filming. Ford Sterling, ZaSu Pitts and Sterling Holloway head Beery's supporting cast. Monte Brice directed.

Saturday, May 28, "Wolves of the Air."

Sunday, May 29, "See You in Jail."

Monday and Tuesday, May 30 and 31, "Casey at the Bat."

Wednesday June 1, "The Heart Thief."

Thursday and Friday, June 2 and 3, "The Fire Brigade."
