Paul Schroeder Becomes Florida G. O. P. Worker

Paul Schroeder, of Miami, Fla., in a letter to local friends this week, makes the prediction that Florida will be the first state in the South to become a Republican state.

He writes that he has been elected chairman of the Dade county Republican convention to be held June 1, and is vice-president of the Dade county Miami Republican club, now organizing precincts throughout the state, in preparation for the 1928 campaign.

He says the Miami Chamber of Commerce has made a bid to secure the coming National Democratic convention, and admits that he also is doing all within his power to secure that honor for his adopted city, regardless of the fact that his active political licks are being put in toward placing his state in the Republican column. Mr. Schroeder is identified with a well known north shore real estate concern.
