

N. U. Commencement Exercises Will Get Underway Saturday

Town and Gown will mingle this Saturday when former students assemble for Alumni Day, one of the features of the commencement program of Northwestern university.

From the time that the annual Phi Beta Kappa meeting is held at 9:30 in the morning at Annie May Swift hall, until late at night when evening festivities have concluded a day crowded with celebration and reunion, the Gown will have possession of the Town.

The general alumni dinner will be held at the Orrington hotel at 6 in the evening. Alumni of the School of Music will dine together at that hour at the North Shore hotel, while the School of Speech alumni will have their reunion supper at that time at Annie May Swift hall.

The annual meeting of the board of trustees will be held at 10 o'clock in Harris hall. At 12:30 the annual Alumni Day Parade will be in order on the campus. At 1 o'clock the alumni luncheon and business meeting will be held in the University gymnasium, the baseball game will be played at 4 o'clock, and class and fraternity reunions be in order in the early evening.

The meeting of the School of Speech alumni will take place at 5, and the annual alumni reading at 7:30. President Scott and Mrs. Scott will give their annual reception at the gymnasium between 9 and 11, and the garden party, which the Associate Alumnae will give to all friends of the university, will be held in the Shakespear garden between 4 and 6.

Sunday the baccalaureate sermon will be preached by the Rev. Horace Greeley Smith of Wilmette, and the 69th annual commencement exercises will be held at the University gymnasium at 10:30 Monday morning. The speaker will be Chancellor E. H. Lindley, Ph. D., LL. D.

PAUL, A HINDU YOUTH, DEFIES ANCESTRAL GOD

ple mentioned the idol. Finally it became evident that this particular idol was not going to return on his own accord so a search was started. Two days later it was found in the center of a large cactus patch. With much care the orthodox pulled it out and had it restored. But Paul now was in the height of his glory. He talked constantly about the uselessness of a stone god and called on the villagers to join with him. "That is all very well," they said, "you have escaped thus far because this is a good-natured god. He has overlooked your insult. Now beware or the terrible Karuppanasawmy will get you." "Very well," said Paul, "we will try him out. I will go and sleep beside the fierce Karuppanasawmy for several nights. If he is able let him kill me." The people at first did not believe that he meant this. It was only vain boasting surely for this god looks ugly enough in the day time not to think of sleeping beside him at night. Some of the Christians even feared for their champion, because it would be easy for some fanatical Hindu to strike a blow in the dark in order to avenge the god. Then the cry would be raised, "See what the god has done. The god has vindicated himself against this fool-hardy man." But night after night Paul slept beside the much-feared idol and no harm came to him.

Accepted as "Lost"

This man has taken the unusual way to profess his religion. I have talked with him and urged him to be friendly with the people and try to win them now by his "way" of love. He has proven before them all that all these idols are only of stone. The traditions of ages have been broken and he has called his people from a religion of fear and superstition to a faith of law and order. He continues to live in the village as a Christian and you might naturally expect that all his family and friends would now believe in him and follow his lead. But that is one of the strange things of India. They have simply accepted him as a lost member.

Mr. and Mrs. Hallet Thorne, 95 Indian Hill road, have as their house guests Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thorne, Dr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor Andrews and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Andrews of Chicago.
