Lindbergh Flight Hailed as Message of Good Will

The following article, which was sent to WINNETKA TALK by Miss Charlotte M. Becker, 1188 Asbury avenue, Hubbard Woods, was from a recent issue of the "Christian Science Monitor." The article, which follows, is called "Marvelous White Bird," and was submitted by a Massachusetts woman.

"It is pleasant to see what a messenger of international good will Lindbergh's airship has proved. The fact recalls some lines written by Amado Nervo, the beloved poet of Mexico, seventeen years ago, when aviation was still new. After watching an air race he wrote:

Miraculous bird, colossal white bird,
You realize the dream of the generations! . . .

At last, at last, the children of men have wings! . . .

Do not stain the heavenly bird with warlike missions!

It was born to carry cordial messages,
And it sows kisses of peace among the nations.

Robert Wienecke Weds Eliza Rittenhouse June 23

Miss Eliza Rittenhouse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Wayne Rittenhouse of Bourbon, Ind., became the bride of Robert H. Wienecke, son of Henry C. Wienecke of Glencoe, on Thursday, June 23, at 8.30 o'clock. The Rev. Douglas H. Cornell performed the ceremony, which was held in the Glencoe Union church. A reception followed, held at the North Shore hotel.

The bride's gown of white satin was made with long sleeves and bouffant skirt. Chantilly lace trimmed the gown and formed the high crown of the veil. The veil was made full length of tulle and rose leaves and orange blossoms trimmed the cap. White sweet peas and valley lilies formed the bouquet.

Miss Mildred Anderson of Hammond was maid of honor. She wore peach organdie made in bouffant style over peach satin, and carried a shower bouquet of peach roses. Miss Anne Edwards of Chicago, Miss Lydia Sprenger of Kenilworth, Miss Velma Schaefer of Bourbon, and Miss Ethel Arison of Evanston, attended the bride. Their organdie dresses were in rainbow colors, pink, blue, green, and orchid, made in the same bouffant style over white satin. They carried larkspur and pink roses.

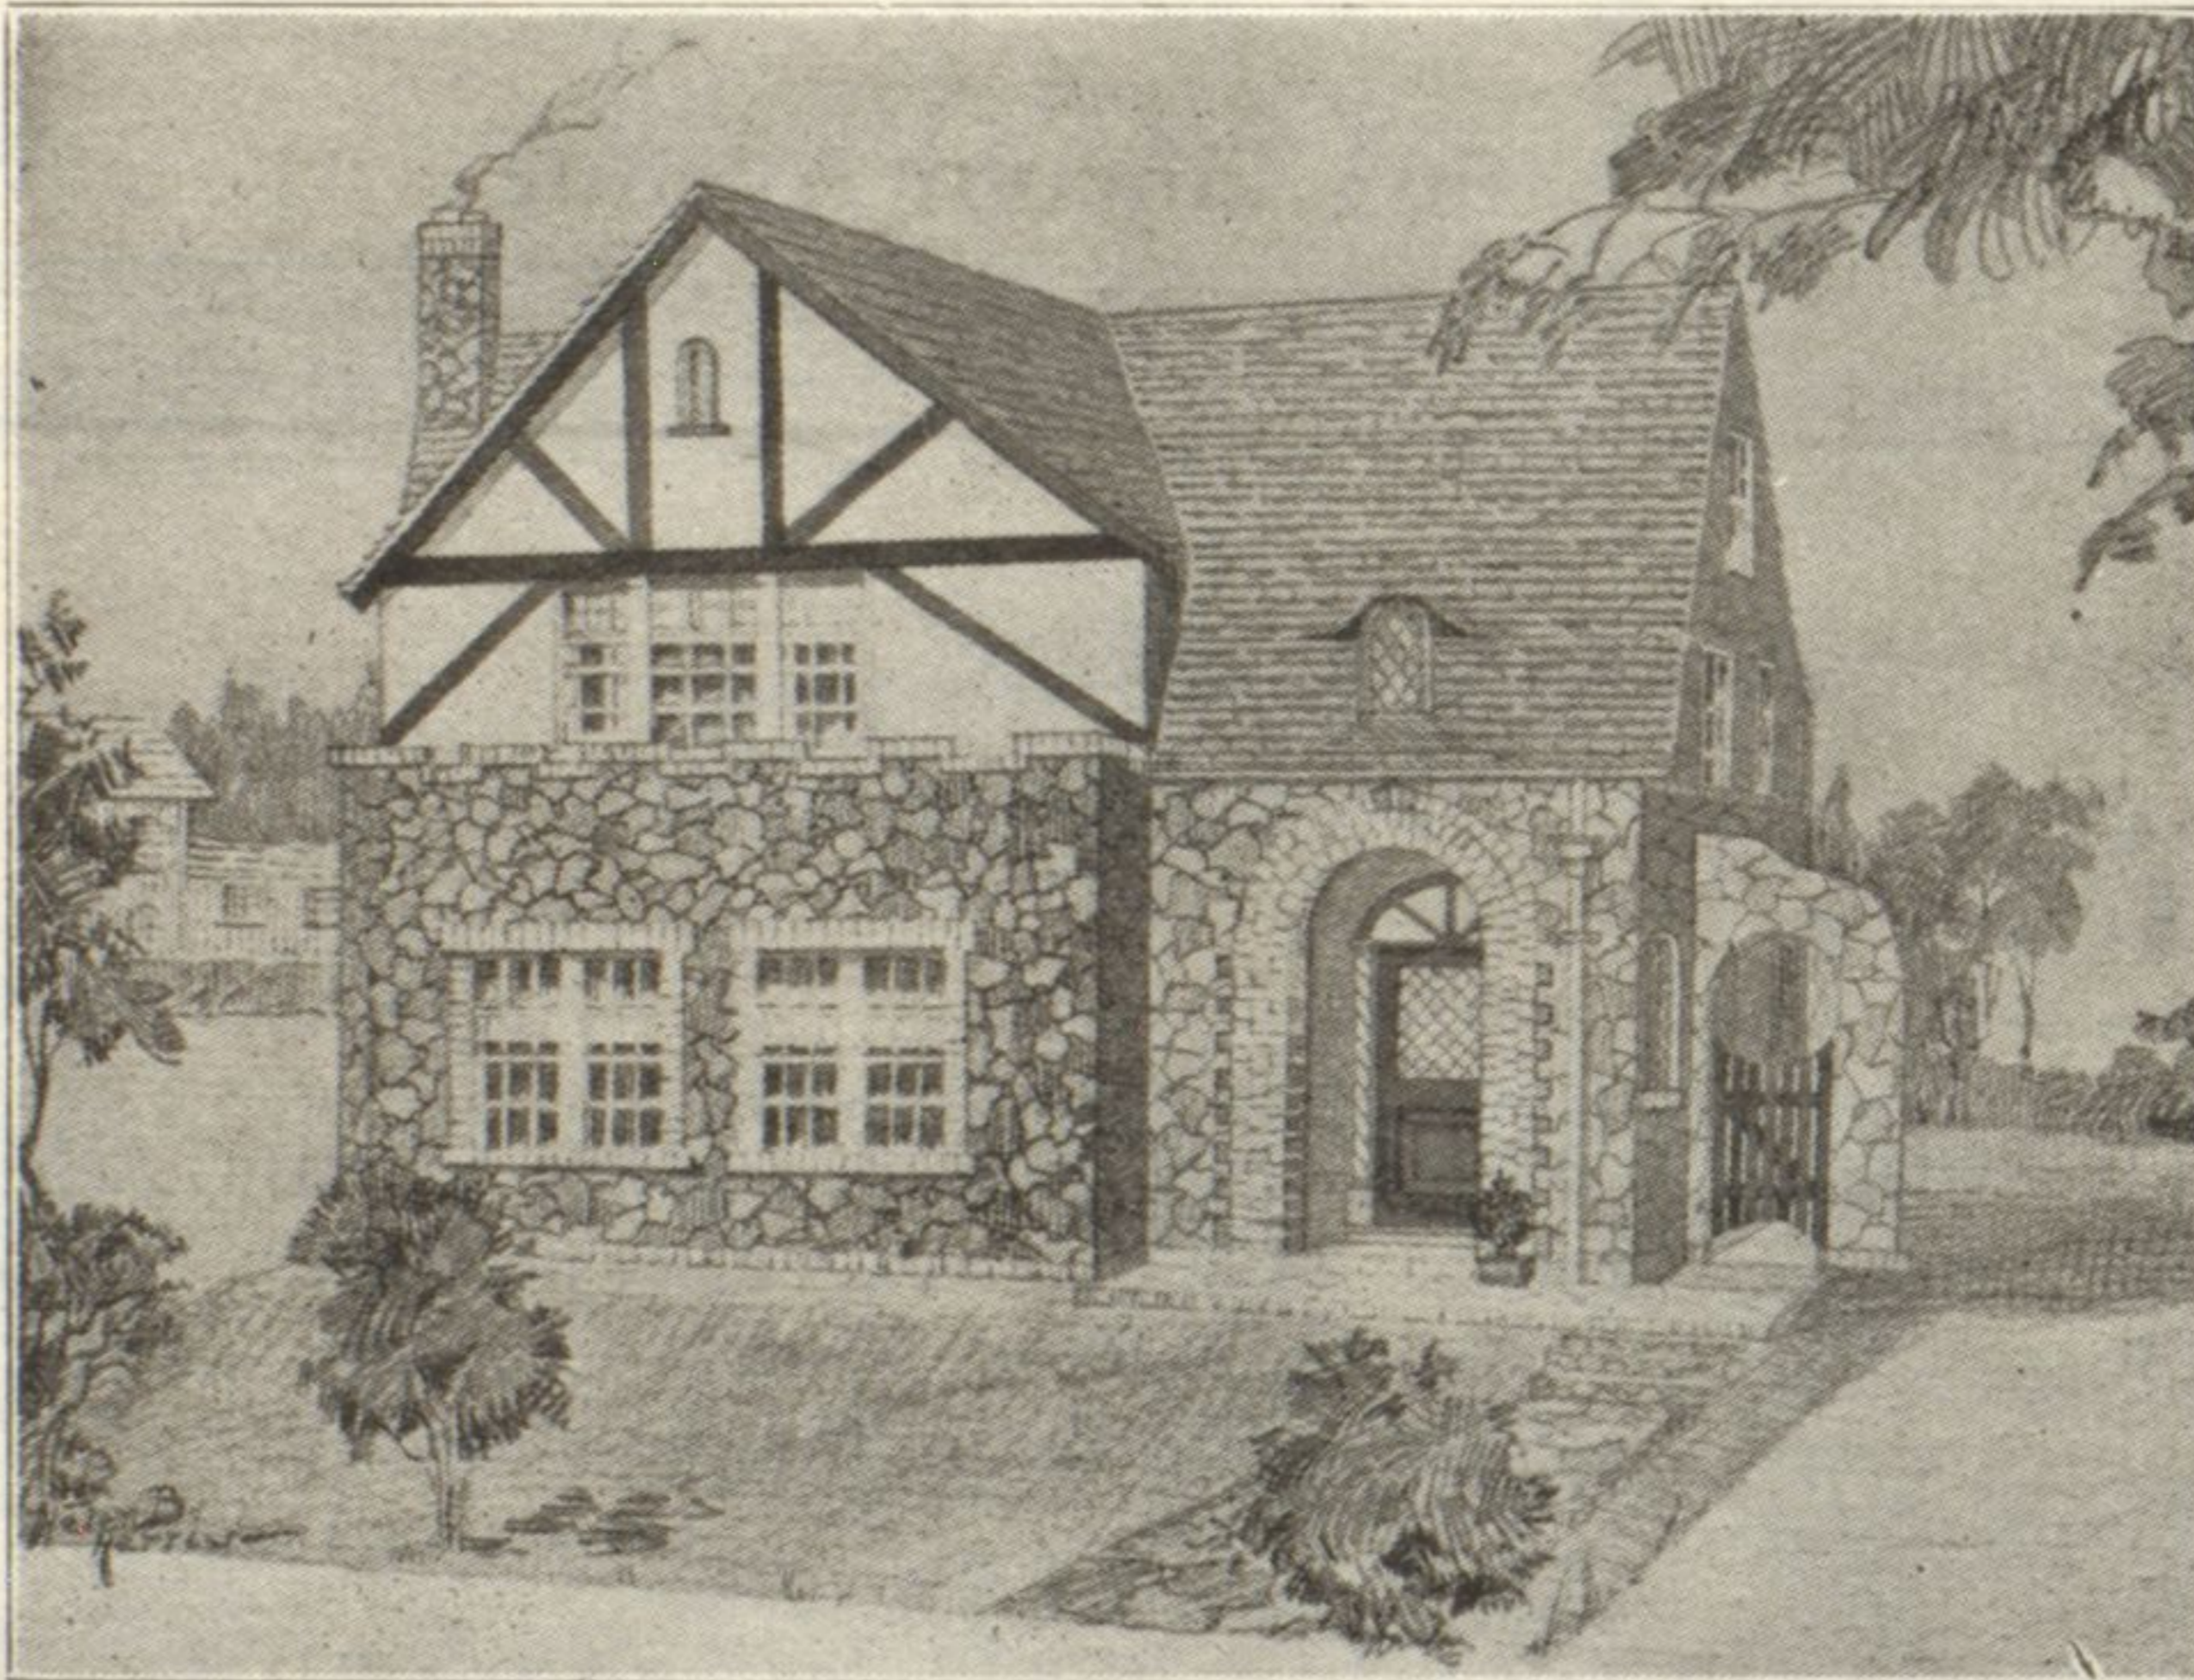

Irwin R. Hazen, Jr., of Chicago, was Mr. Wienecke's best man, and the ushers were Dr. C. William Johnson and George K. Budd of Glencoe, Walter Seidel of Chicago, and Donald McFadden of Peoria. The bride has just received her degree at Northwestern university. Mr. Wienecke was prominent in football at the university, serving as captain in his senior year. The members of the bridal party all attended the university, the bridesmaids having been sorority sisters of the bride, who is a Chi Omega.

Mr. and Mrs. Wienecke left on a motor trip through the West. They will be at home at 680 Vernon avenue on their return.

Miss Elizabeth Wells Robertson is giving a garden tea for Madame Leon Rothier from 3 to 6 July 9, at her home in Ravinia.
