

Foreign Students Given Awards for Theses on America

In an effort to encourage the study of American life and ideals, John C. Shaffer, editor of the Chicago Evening Post, has offered prize awards for the best thesis on the topic by foreign students at Northwestern university, it was learned today, with the announcement of the first awards in the essay contest. Richard M. Sia, of Pao Shu Yuan, Foo Chow, China, and George M. Chavarri of 324 Lambagegue Estate, Peru, have been declared this year's winners by the committee of judges. The committee consisting of Prof. Arthur J. Todd, head of the sociology department, and Dean Thomas F. Holgate, and Dean James A. James apparently had some difficulty in naming the winners, as both Sia and Chavarri were chosen to divide the second prize of $50 and none of these were declared comprehensive enough to garner the $100 first award. Both the prize-winners have been felicitated by President Walter Dill Scott.

In his statement regarding the reasons for offering prizes to foreign students, Mr. Shaffer has made it plain that he wants to see students from foreign lands become interested in American life and problems. Students who were born in foreign countries and who expect to return there after finishing college work at Northwestern are alone eligible.

Advices on Safe Milk Supply While Traveling

At this time of the year when vacations are being planned, mothers are greatly concerned about what kind of milk they will be able to get for their children when they are out of the city.

Touring, traveling or vacationing in the country, each offers different problems. As an aid to mothers who plan on being out of the city, Will A. Foster, director of the Educational Department of Borden's Farm Products company of Illinois, offers some valuable suggestions:

1. Choose mixed milk from a number of cows in preference to the milk of one cow. Be sure that the stables are clean and that the utensils used on the dairy farm are washed and sterilized.
2. Dairy cows that have been tested for and declared free from bovine tuberculosis, usually have a metal tag bearing the serial number and state in which tested, clipped in the right ear.
3. If the milk has not been properly pasteurized, heat it in a double boiler to 160 degrees Fahrenheit, and maintain that temperature for 20 minutes. Chill the milk quickly and keep it in a cool place.

4. To keep milk cool, when ice is not available, wrap the container with a damp cloth and place out of the sun where a breeze can strike it.

5. Avoid a milk that is too rich, because a milk containing about 3.5 per cent butter-fat is best for children to drink.
