

CABIN A BUSY PLACE

North Shore Boy Scouts Now Firmly Entrenched in Over-night Hiking Retreat in Woods

Standing as the culmination of six years of work to get a stopping place for over-night Boy Scout hikers, The Cabin-in-the-Woods, dedicated on Sunday, June 26, is now ready to reward Scouts of the North Shore Area Council for their efforts. It is described as "the over-night hike objective of the North Shore Area extending from Wilmette to Lake Bluff."

Three dates stand out in the most recent history of the cabin: February 8, when its establishment was assured by the Cook County Forest Preserve board; May 21, when twenty-seven troops took part in a fun rally at the cabin; and June 26, the dedication. The Scouts, their leaders, and their parents have officially extended their thanks to the Board of Forest Preserve Commissioners of Cook County and to Mr. Oscar W. Schmidt in particular, for his untiring energy in making possible that which is the heritage of north shore Scouts for many years to come, the Cabin-in-the-Woods. Credit is also given to Ransom Kennicott, Cook county forester, for the location of the cabin, and to Peter M. Hoffman, former sheriff and now connected with the Forest Preserve board, for the building of it.

In order that Scouts unaccompanied by Scoutmasters may be under supervision over night, Assistant Scout Executive Draper has arranged to be present at the cabin every Wednesday from noon through to Thursday morning, he has announced.

The dedication on June 26 was attended by Commissioner Schmidt, Mr. Hoffman, Mr. Kennicott, and Commissioners Louise Nettlehorts and Francis Boutell. The speech of acceptance of the cabin was made by Albert P. Snite, president of the North Shore Area Council; the camp flag was presented by L. J. Cahn, for the north shore American Legion posts; and the flag was raised by Eagle Scout Fowler of Wilmette.

Drowning Man Snatched From Death in Canal

Only timely assistance from Frank P. Blair of Wilmette and Captain Brantigam of the Wilmette police department, saved Hans Nelson, 3203 Armitage avenue, Chicago, from drowning in the drainage canal between Maple and Linden avenues Tuesday evening at about 5 o'clock.

Nelson was discovered floating in the water in an unconscious state by Blair, who happened to pass the spot in a boat. He was taken to shore and the Wilmette police summoned. Captain Brantigam responded and upon his arrival immediately applied artificial respiration, succeeding in resuscitating Nelson after a short time. Chief Walter Zibble of the Fire department had also been notified and responded with the pulmotor but Nelson had recovered sufficiently to make its use unnecessary. He was taken to the Evanston hospital for medical attention.

If this were Baron Rothschild—and he wanted the finest fan money could buy, he'd have to line up with the crowd and pay only $16.50. This fan has everything—three speeds, enclosed oscillating mechanism, non-tarnishing blades.
