

Children's Carnival at Ravinia Old English Festival

Children Urged to Wear Costumes for Ravinia Carnival

BY JEAN TEN BROECK

The charm of an Old English Festival is to be the appeal for children this season on the occasion of that annual colorful affair, the children's carnival at Ravinia Park. The day is to be Thursday afternoon, July 28, 1927, but the real time is that of Robin Hood, which will be relived in the costumes of the children participating. In addition to the youngsters from the Municipal Pier, who each year have given the carnival production, two groups of little folk, one from Winnetka and Hubbard Woods and one from Glencoe, will join the young actors on Thursday. The former group will give two folk dances, and plans have been made for the latter to be miniature Robin Hood men. The entire affair again is under the direction of Miss Bertha Iles.

The Great Lakes band will play its spirited music. Members of the north shore Ravinia committees will sell favors throughout the festival and two girls from each town, clad in gay costumes, will help sell favors.

North shore children who come to the festival as spectators are urged to attire themselves in costumes to lend color, and to take part in the Grand March, always a feature of the affair.

Winnetka children are urged to attend the carnival and, whenever possible, to come in costume, either Old English, or any other of their choosing. A Grand March will be one special feature of the day, as usual. The program commences at 3 o'clock.

Winnetka and Glencoe

Hostesses at Maisonette

Winnetka and Glencoe women are taking an active share in the work of the Cradle Maisonette, society's new tea house which was opened July 7, at 612 Church street, Evanston, and is to be conducted for the benefit of its older sister institution, the Cradle of Ridge avenue.

One day of each week sees a Winnetka woman in the position of hostess at the tea room, and the other days are divided up among Evanston, Glencoe, Highland Park, and Lake Bluff. Mrs. Buckingham Chandler of Indian Hill road, Winnetka, was hostess on Tuesday of this week, and next Monday Mrs. Horace W. Armstrong of Sheridan road, Winnetka, will be hostess. Mrs. Clyde Stevens of Winnetka also plans to take one day next week. On Friday of this week Mrs. Robert Wood of Highland Park entertained.

Miss Marian Dawes, Mrs. W. Hamilton Walter, and Mrs. H. Mitchell Harper, all of Glencoe, are among the young women who are giving their services as waitresses to the Maisonette. Mrs. Frederick P. Ives, who is president of the Junior League, and Miss Betty Slaughter of Evanston are in charge of assigning members to work each day.

The Cradle Maisonette, which serves luncheons every day, is under the management of Miss Cecile Zukovsky, a student of the University of Chicago and the daughter of Alexander Zukovsky who is playing with the Chicago Symphony orchestra at Ravinia this summer. Mrs. T. Jerrold Bryce of Evanston was in charge of decorations and furnishings. The general color scheme is pink and black, with the green lattices of the veranda and the ivies and ferns in the grate lending a new note. The woodwork and chairs are lacquered in a bright rose, while the floors, fireplace, and oilcloth table covers are black. Rows of pink geraniums help carry out the color scheme, and the waitresses, too, are dressed to harmonize with the color plan.
