School Opening Increases Auto Mishap Hazards

"The schools will be open next month, and school authorities and motorists' organizations are already turning their thoughts to the matter of accident prevention among the school children," says Chas. M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club.

"The average child starts to school at six, the age at which accidents are most prevalent, and every year brings its hundreds of little ones who have not had the benefit of safety training, and who are alone on the streets every day for the first time. Children are quick to follow example, and in the work of reducing accidents good example has been found to be one of the most important factors in influencing the actions of children.

"The school boys' patrols, appointed because of capability, good deportment and attention to studies, furnish the needed example. The boys are respected by their school comrades and by the general motoring public; they are responsible for improving the general morale of the schools, in addition to the work they accomplish in preventing accidents.

Stanley Wheatley has just finished a six weeks' special course at the University of Wisconsin. He will visit friends in Detroit the last week in August.

Mrs. William Jones Smith of 1078 Elm street leaves today for Ephraim, Wis., where she will spend about two weeks.

STATE FORCES GIRD FOR BACTERIA FIGHT

Legislation Now Provides for Central Ammunition Depot for Serum Distribution

War on bacteria in Illinois will continue for at least two more years. This fact was disclosed this week when contracts were closed between the state health department and several manufacturers of biologics to supply the ammunition in the form of vaccines and sera with which battle will be waged. Appropriations were made by the last general assembly for the maintenance of a central ammunition depot at Springfield from whence will be distributed through some 400 outposts located at vantage points throughout the State the sort of high explosives peculiarly disastrous to the troopers of diphtheria, smallpox, typhoid fever, ophthalmia neonatorum (infantile blindness) and venereal disease.

"It is almost certain," said Dr. Isaac D. Rawlings, state health director, "that the state will be invaded repeatedly during the next two years by the armed forces of several hostile bacterial nations. Information furnished by the intelligence service maintained under the direction of the chief epidemiologist gives every reason to anticipate a continuation of the gorilla tactics employed recently by typhoid fever and a determined and stubborn attack of diphtheria during the next few weeks. Smallpox will doubtless reinforce the other two a little later while infantile blindness is a constant menace in many quarters. Scarlet fever is mobilizing for an attack during the winter and spring while measles, pneumonia and whooping cough will undoubtedly be allied with the infectious entente before summer.

"For this reason special ammunition will be supplied, (free of cost like shells to the soldiers), to citizens in all parts of the state. They are warned to be prepared against surprise attacks. These enemies never fight in the open always from ambush of the most unexpected character.
