Reviews At the North

Plenty of Fun on Week's Bill at the Village

Three good comedies, "Painting the Town," "What Happened to Father" and "Callahans and Murphys," have been listed by the Village for features during the coming week.

Patsy Ruth Miller and Glen Tryon take the lead in "Painting the Town" and they paint it right. Tryon is a new comer in feature length comedies but if this is any indication of his ability, he should do wonders in the future. In "Painting the Town" he appears as a village wisecracker with a flair for tricky inventions and wise follies girls. It is a good comedy.

"What Happened to Father" is the ludicrous picturing of what befell a timid, henpecked professor, when for one night he threw his inhibitions to the winds. The prof writes plays on the sly under an assumed name. When he is asked to come to the theater where one of his plays is being staged for the first time and is recognized as Professor Bradberry and then arrested for the supposed murder of the man of the other name, things happen in all kinds of ways. Nice little comedy.

Of course the "Callahans and Murphys" is the prize of the three pictures.

Vitaphone Is Feature at Varsity Theater Again

Vitaphone is once again to entertain patrons of the Varsity theater, it was announced this week by the management. New equipment has been installed at the theater and the popular new feature will go into operation at once. The Vitaphone entertainment was stopped recently to repair and install equipment.

Kvale's Band New Feature at Norshore

Considerably augmenting their customary program at the Norshore theater, Balaban and Katz announce an expansion of stage features that will correspond in quality with those which are making their other playhouses celebrated entertainment places.

The new program will be put into effect next Sunday. A stage band will be instituted under the direction of Al Kvale, the clarinet-playing clown of Paul Ash's well known band, and one of the most popular of the Merry Mad gang. An orchestra of young collegiate musicians, reputed to be capable of the hottest degrees of jazz as well as some of the most lulling of romantic lullabies, has been assembled. Al will call them his "Jazz Collegians," and promises to have them ready for the opening with a program of song hits to tickle the most particular jazz hounds.

For the program Sunday, Lester Allen, popular Broadway star and veteran of a dozen famous revues, seen recently in Chicago in "Le Maire's Affairs," has also been engaged. The opening show will also feature such favorites as Ilomay Bailey, the popular blues singer from the Oriental theater; Eddie Hill, the crying comedian with a new group of novelty songs; Jack and Kay Spengler, dance sensations from Earl Carroll's "Vanities," and the Hearst Brothers, proteges of Gus Edwards.

The screen feature will be "Chang," the much-discussed picture of animal life, which has drawn elaborate comment from press and public.

Illness of Leading Lady Delays Doug's New Film

Lupeta Velez, Douglas Fairbanks' leading lady in his latest picture "The Gaucho," is seriously ill with peritonitis.

She was stricken recently when she had almost finished her role in the production. Two scenes calling for her appearance remain to be filmed.

Until she recovers sufficiently to resume her work, the company will go ahead with other scenes.

Marjory Williams Returns to New Evanston Sept. 5

Marjory Williams, the leading lady for the Minturn Players during their stand at the New Evanston last winter, is to return during the coming season with a different company, it was announced this week. Ernest Woodworth, a player who, it will be remembered, played on the north shore during the period that Harry Minturn became so well known, is director of the company. The opening date is set for September 5.

Constance Talmadge to Appear Soon in "Sunny"

Constance Talmadge's trip abroad won't be spoiled with any heartaches over losing "The Last of Mrs. Cheney" to Gloria Swanson. Her brother-in-law, Joseph Schenk, whose talent as a diplomat is really wasted in the movies, has cabled Connie that "Sunny," With David Wark Griffith directing, will be her next United Artists' assignment.
