Simplicity

We use no magic in the laundering of your clothes. Women visitors to our plant marvel at the simplicity of the equipment and methods. They leave appreciative of the fact that a laundry is more than "a place where washing is done."

We show visitors a laundry just as clean and tidy as their own; equipment built on the same principle as that built for the home; people working as they would expect them to work in their own home; and laundry finished just as though they themselves were supervising it.

A simple policy built our business—
Quality Work day in and day out.

It is the cause of our continued growth, and the reason why 3,000 housewives give the weekly laundry to Bill the Washington Laundry Man.

Hub Takes More Room in Orrington Hotel

The Hub's Evanston clothing store will make another enlargement within the next month—the second since its opening here a year and a half ago.

From its original shop on the south side of the first floor of the Orrington hotel, the Hub expanded its quarters to the second floor and is now planning to occupy the room which has been the hotel dining room. Architects are working on the plans for the alterations and work will start soon on the remodeling. As soon as the hotel has finished moving the dining room, from the space to be taken over by the Hub, to the inner room, once the Chocolate shop, construction will start.

The first use of coal in America was in the camp of La Salle, now Starved Rock, Illinois, in 1683. This is said to be the first discovery of coal on the new continent.

During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1927, 20,723 immigrants came to Illinois and 3,911 persons left for foreign countries.

St. George's to Open for Its First Class on Monday Morning

St. George's high school, the new institution being conducted by the Brothers of the Christian schools and supported by the Catholic parishes of the North shore, opens classes for the first time next Monday morning. One hundred fifty boys are expected to register for work at the school building, which is just being finished at 350 Sherman avenue between St. Francis hospital and the "L" tracks.

The Rev. Brother Elzear of the Christian Brothers is principal of the school. All those who will be admitted this year are freshmen. The group will be divided into four sections with one teacher for each.

"Red" Maher to Coach

Physical training will be one of the features of the program. A director has been employed, William "Red" Maher, former Notre Dame star who played with the Four Horsemen. He will coach teams in football, basketball, baseball and track, entering a football team in the lightweight contests of high schools of this district this fall. A large gymnasium with a running track and swimming tank has been constructed in the new building, and an athletic field has been provided to the south of the building.

An electrical loud speaker has been installed, so that the principal may communicate with one or all of the class rooms at the same time and thus make his announcements without going from room to room.

Twenty-eight class rooms, science laboratories, shower baths, cafeteria and library are provided. The equipment in the laboratories differs from that in most high schools in that each student will have an individual hood and desk to work over when he is performing an experiment. These individual equipments have been especially designed for the school by Brother John, a science instructor at De la Salle institute.

The teachers are using the south wing of the building for living quarters at present, but a residence capable of housing 400 teachers will be built on a lot northeast of the high school within the next five years.

Though only 150 are being admitted this fall the building will finally accommodate 1,000 students.
