

Landmark Gives Way to New Club

This familiar structure, the Ouilmette Country club, will soon give way to a thoroughly modern and pretentious $700,000 clubhouse to be erected by a club which, in consequence of a merger of the Ouilmette Country club and the Century club of Evanston, came into being late last week. The new club combines the objectives of its two predecessors which were identical in character. The new club house will include all the features of the present structure augmented by numerous other facilities for recreational and social activity, it is stated. The name of the new club has not been definitely determined, it was announced this week.

Peter L. Gilbert, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul T. Gilbert of Kenilworth, has been the guest of Elsa Laubach Jemme, specialist in children's portraits, at her bungalow at Big Sandy lake, McGregor, Minn. Her sketches of Peter will be included in the next Chicago Artists' exhibit.
