

WILL DIRECT THEATER

David Owen Comes From Michigan U. to Take Alexander Dean's Place With Theater Guild

The North Shore guild and the Northwestern University theater will this season have a new director.

David Owen who last season had supervision of dramatics at the University of Michigan, will take this dual office made vacant by the decision of Alexander Dean, absent for several months on leave of absence, not to return. Mr. Dean has gone on to Yale to be assistant to George P. Baker, formerly with the "47 Play-shop" of Harvard, more recently director of the wonderful new theater at Yale.

Mr. Owen was graduated from Leland Stanford university. As undergraduate he was assistant to Richard Bentinck and Gordon Davis at Leland Stanford. Later he studied in New York for the professional stage and has played with stock companies, toured with road companies, and appeared in New York and on the road with Louis Mann, Sydney Blackmer, Margaret Wycherly and others. His production of "He Who Gets Slapped" at Michigan last season was a notable dramatic offering.

Another change on the staff of the school of Speech at Northwestern is the departure of Vance Morton who returns to his alma mater, the University of Iowa, as associate professor of dramatics.

Miss Beatrice Lindsay, daughter of the Martin Lindsays of 215 Ridge avenue, and Miss Eleanor Sherman, daughter of the Roger Shermans of 213 Linden avenue, have returned to Dana hall, Wellesley, Mass.

Wayne Andrews, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Andrews of 785 Willow road, left last week for Lawrenceville, N. J., where he will attend school.

John Western Back from Extended Tour of East

After an eastern trip lasting more than four weeks, President John Western is again at his post at North Shore cemetery. Mr. and Mrs. Western attended three conventions, the Association of American Cemetery Managers at Cleveland, the American Bar association at Buffalo, and the American Rose society, the guests of Pierre S. duPont on his famous estate near Kennett Square, a suburb of Philadelphia.

Mr. Western took an active part in the meetings of the cemetery managers and the rose-growers. The rest of the trip was spent in visiting leading cemeteries and nurseries in Ohio, New York and Pa., and in sight-seeing and visiting notable historical places.

Junior League to Stage Puppet Show in Glencoe

A fascinating puppet presentation of "Jack and the Beanstalk" will delight Glencoe children Saturday morning when Evanston Junior League members present it at the Glencoe school.

The puppets will be manipulated by Miss Alice Judson, Mrs. Edward Sutherland Clark, Mrs. J. Larnard Ferguson of Evanston and Mrs. Mitchell Harper and Mrs. George Fargo of Glencoe. Mrs. Clark is chairman of the puppet show committee of the Junior league. Mrs. John G. Searles of Hill Terrace, Indian Hill, and Mrs. Harold Blakeley of Evanston are making the puppets.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Banta, formerly of 1387 Asbury avenue, have moved to 310 Roger Williams avenue, Ravinia.
