

Ulysses' Travels Are Revivified in Halliburton Talk

By R. M.

Many north shore residents were scattered among the audience Monday evening to hear Richard Halliburton, well known author of the "Royal Road to Romance" and "The Glorious Adventure," give his interesting lecture under the auspices of the Chicago League of Women Voters Forum. He told of his latest travels which took him through the lands of Homer's "Odyssey."

As an ardent admirer of Homer, and with Ulysses his ideal hero, it was quite natural for him to desire to follow the trail of Ulysses on his long adventurous travels, as he himself said:

"Having wandered over the world for two years it was quite surprising that I should not feel content with staying at home in ease and comfort, but my spirit yearned to be across the ocean, travelling the route that Ulysses had traveled. I watched the ships sailing out of the harbor until I could stand it no longer. I packed up, and one day I, too, was one of those ships sailing across the ocean to the land of my dreams."

Mr. Halliburton told of his journey in a most amusing, magical way. His humor was refreshing, and his descriptions of magnificent scenes and sights were exhilarating in their freshness. He told of swimming the Hellespont, of climbing Mt. Olympus, of making a pilgrimage to the grave of Rupert Brooke on Skyros, of visiting Circe's cave, of attempting to swim from Scylla to Charybdis. He also visited the cave of the Cyclops and ran the old Marathon course.

Halliburton is one of the youngest writers of the present day and the charm of his books permeates his lectures.

Mrs. W. H. Burgess of Hayworth, N. J., who has been spending the summer with her daughter, Mrs. Irving W. Hadsell of 1128 Cherry street, will leave Winnetka tomorrow to return to her home.

INSTALL PIPE ORGAN

Installation of the huge pipe organ at the rear of Northwestern gymnasium is proceeding and will be finished by November 25. Building operations are being rushed and the organ will soon be housed in its permanent enclosure. It is being installed for use during the next North Shore Music festival.

TO WED IOWA MAN

Mrs. Dollie M. Nelson, 1737 Highland avenue, Wilmette, formerly of Evanston, announces the approaching marriage of her daughter, Mildred, to Lawrence Arthur Porter, son of Mrs. Lenora Jane Porter of Missouri Valley, Iowa. The wedding will take place at 5:30 Saturday at the Second Presbyterian church.

Harold I. Orwig of 548 Willow road sailed on the S. S. Paris October 15, from New York, for Havre, Franch. An extended trip in the interest of his company will take him to nearly every European country and will keep him abroad indefinitely.

IN NEW HOME

The Ira J. Wilsons moved Tuesday from their home at 369 Ridge avenue to their new home at 325 Ridge avenue. This is the house left by N. H. Blatchford to the Congregational church and recently sold by the church to the Wilsons. Charles Stuart Kennedy of Evanston has bought the old Wilson residence and will take possession today.

Miss Margaret Pick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Pick of 1192 Chatfield road, recently entertained a few friends at luncheon at Woods and a matinee performance of "The Patent Leather Kid."
