Correct for Teens in style and comfort!

WHAT is the young-lady-in-her-earlier-teens to do when she feels that she is becoming "too grown-up" for juvenile styles? What is she to do when Mother warns her against injury to her growing feet by wearing shoes that are too advanced for her years in order to attain that elusive thing called sophistication?

Both of her questions can be answered at once: She can select one of the many exclusively designed models of the Modern Miss Shoe—a shoe correct to the last word in style—correct in the last word of healthful construction and comfort!

Diphtheria on Upgrade at This Season, Report

Running twenty-five per cent heavier than at this season last year and noticeably more fatal, diphtheria prevalence now is twice what it was in August with the probability of becoming even more widespread before beginning to decline, according to a statement issued this week by Dr. Isaac D. Rawlings, state health director. Case reports are averaging 140 per week in the state against 110 for the corresponding date last year and seventy during August and September. "October and November are the two worst months of the year for diphtheria in Illinois," said Dr. Rawlings, "and the disease has taken its usual upward swing in prevalence for this season. Case reports are already twice what they were in August and September with the probability that the peak prevalence is still three or four weeks away.

Former Wilmette Boys Use Plane to See Illini Game

Tom and Jack McGinley, formerly of Wilmette, now attending the University of Illinois, wanted so badly to see the Northwestern-Illinois game at Evanston, last Saturday, that, when a professor scheduled an examination for Saturday morning, they decided that evidently the only way they could reach the game in time was by Airplane. So by airplane they came, arriving in their seats when the whistle blew. The McGinley family now live in California.

Dr. and Mrs. H. R. Schildberg of 1015 Ash street announce the birth of a daughter Sunday afternoon, October 23, at the Highland Park hospital. The baby is to be named Dorothy June.

NEW N. U. DEPARTMENT

Dr. W. T. Bovie to Direct Biophysics Research at University

Northwestern's newly created department of biophysics, the application of physics to biology, in the medical school, is under the direction of Dr. W. T. Bovie, former Harvard university professor, who arrived in Chicago last week to assume charge.

Dr. Bovie is a pioneer in the field of biophysics and is regarded as the outstanding man in that branch of medical research in America today. Operations in which incisions are made with an electric current instead of a knife, accompanied by freedom from pain and surgical shock, have been made possible by Dr. Bovie's recent development of apparatus for electrical surgery. This method of performing operations, it has been predicted, will revolutionize surgery.

The electrical current not only makes the incision but at the same time closes the blood vessels so that even in operations usually accompanied by great loss of blood on the part of the patient no bleeding occurs.

Dr. Bovie will devote a large part of his time to research and the creation and development of new and experimental apparatus. New apparatus for use in electrical surgery and in other work in biophysics will be made in the laboratory on McKinlock campus, says Dr. Irving S. Cutter, dean.

Dr. and Mrs. Jay M. Garner of 804 Prospect avenue are parents of a girl born Sunday morning, October 23, at the Evanston hospital. Mary Ella is the name chosen for the baby.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Gordon have leased their home at 844 Foxdale avenue and will spend the winter in Chicago.
