

Children's Theater to Open Season With Comedy by Moliere

"The Make-Believe Gentleman," an adaptation of Moliere's "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," will be the season's first production at the Children's theater of Evanston, Dec. 3.

The director, Miss Winifred Ward, who has brought the theater to its present point of excellence and has supervised its recent merging with the dramatic work of all the city schools, made this announcement this week.

The play is described as a rollicking comedy with music and dancing, and its story is that of an ignorant shop-keeper who tries to get himself educated suddenly when he becomes rich in order to pass himself off as a fine gentleman. It will be presented by players from the Thalian Dramatic club of the School of Speech in the beautiful auditorium of the new Haven school.

The elaborate dancing will be done by members of Orchesis, the honorary dancing sorority of the University, under direction of Margaret Schultz-Kranz. Dean Farnsworth will be production manager, and the orchestra from the Haven school, directed by B. F. Stuber, will provide the music.

The season will also see productions chosen from among a number of popular children's theater plays: "The Poor Little Rich Girl," "Dick Whittington," "The Three Spinners," "The Princess Who Would Not Say Die," and "Racketty-Packetty House."

Ask for North Western Station at Howard St.

Under the leadership of the Birchwood District Improvement association and its president, Louis E. Langille, various Evanston and Chicago citizens have started a drive for a Chicago and North Western railroad station at Howard street. Among the members of the delegation selected to call upon President Fred W. Sargent of the railroad are Aldermen Hobbs and Smith of Evanston and Frankhauser and Mose of Chicago.

TO SET ELECTION DATE

A hearing on the formation of a North Shore mosquito abatement district will be held before County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki November 10 when he will set the date for a special election on the organization of the district. The hearing is a necessary form which will give any persons opposed to the election a chance to come before the judge. Petitions requesting the election have been completed throughout the district and were filed Monday morning with the county judge by Thurlow G. Essington, attorney for the district. The election will probably be the first week in December, states Arthur Stringer, Evanston representative in the district organization, at which time a successful election will cause the formation of the district and authorize the levying of taxes made possible under recent state legislation.

READ REPORT AT DINNER

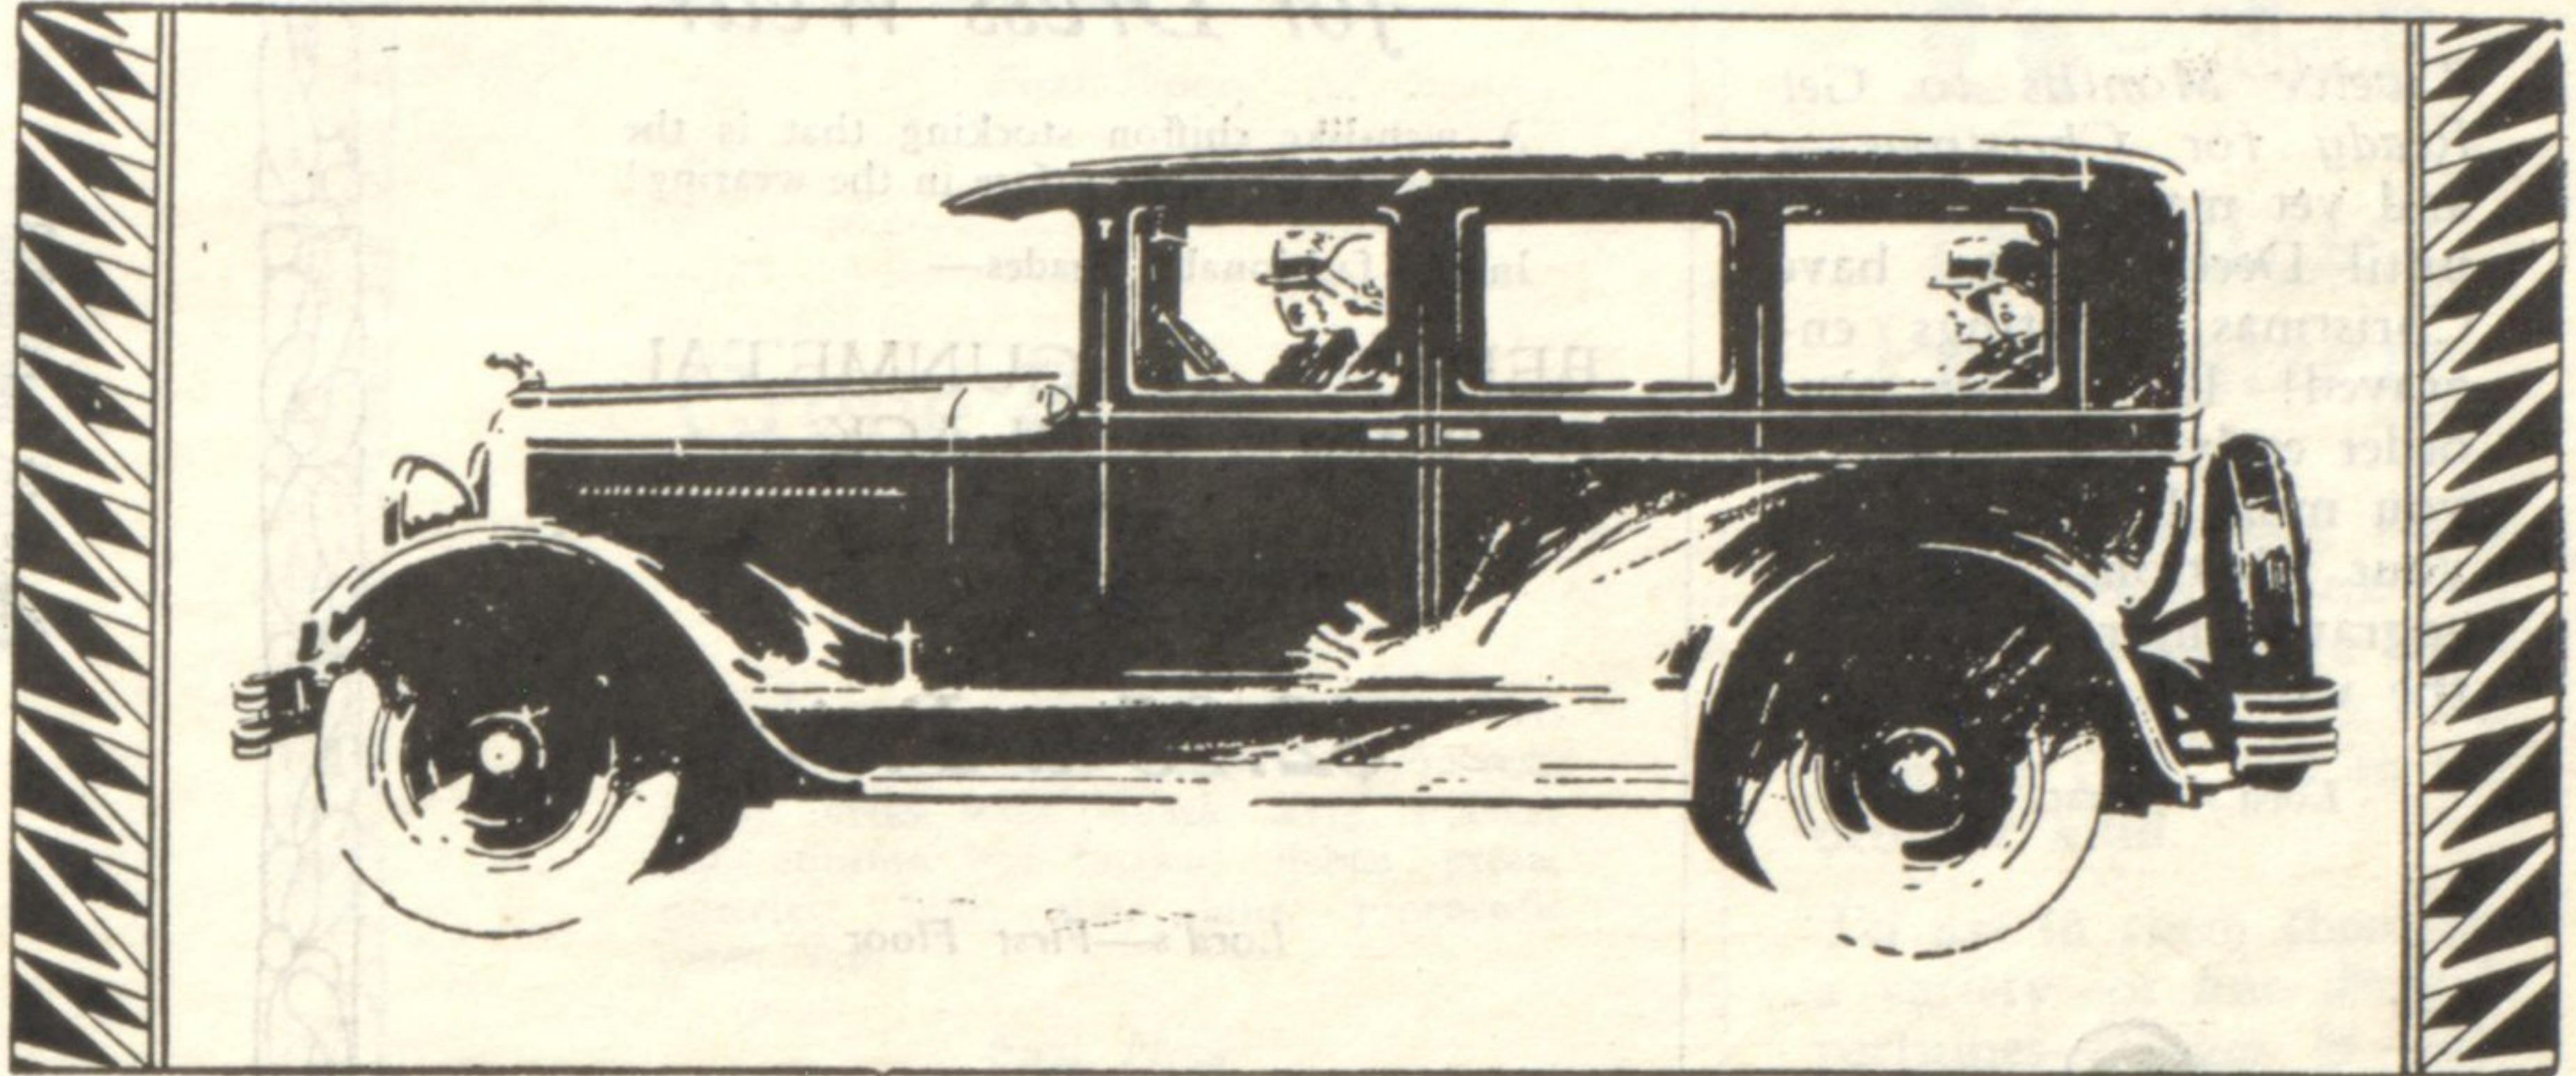

The annual meeting and dinner of the governing board of the National Kindergarten and Elementary college will be held in the Roof garden of the Orrington hotel on Tuesday evening November 1.

The annual report, which is especially interesting as a summary of the first complete year in the north shore location, will be presented by President Edna Dean Baker, and plans for the current year outlined.

Following the dinner, students will present an old fashioned dance, together with a group of songs of the same period.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Huszagh of 204 Fuller lane are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son Tuesday afternoon at St. Luke's hospital.
