Foe of Illiteracy

Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, founder of the "Moonlight Schools" in the Kentucky mountain country and whose remarkable success in that section of the United States has resulted in a world-wide war against illiteracy, will be the speaker at the Wilmette Sunday Evening club Sunday, November 6. Mrs. Stewart is said to have a stirring message that will command the keenest interest.

Miss Helene Younker of 349 Sheridan road is attending the University School for Girls in Chicago.

Marshall Field to Display Kilner Music Land Volume

"La-La Man in Music Land," written by Colleen Browne Kilner (Mrs. Frederic R. Kilner), of 523 Washington avenue, Wilmette, is proving such a favorite among the new fall books for children, that Marshall Field & company will make a special display during Children's Book Week. That event is to be featured, especially Saturday November 12. On that day Georgene Faulkner, the story-lady, will entertain, and Mrs. Kilner has been asked to be present to meet little folk and autograph copies of her book.

Tuesday evening, November 8, at 5:45 P. M., over WEHS, Evanston, Mrs. Kilner has been asked to talk on "Little Children and Music" for the Chandler Children's Hour, from their studio, 630 Davis street, Evanston.

In Wilmette, Mrs. Kilner's book is being handled by the Wilmette Music shop, 1179 Wilmette avenue. Carlton Kaumeyer has asked Mrs. Kilner to autograph a limited number of copies of "La-La Man in Music Land" for little Wilmette folk who are particularly interested.
