THE LAST OPPORTUNITY for Students of the ### Wind and Fretted Instruments . . . .

to secure the personal teaching of Mr. Meltzer in Winnetka. Although he has added another morning to his Winnetka Schedule, there remain but four half-hours available, and these represent the maximum teaching time which he can devote to his Winnetka studio due to the rapid growth of his classes in Chicago (three studios), Evanston and Wilmette.

The Only Remaining Open Periods are . . .

Monday at 3 and 8:30 P. M. Saturday 8:30 and 11 A. M.

Wind instrument pupils are taught the secrets of delightful tone productions, flexible technic, and artistic interpretations learned by Mr. Meltzer through personal study with such masters as Herbert Clarke, for twenty years the cornet soloist with Sousa's Band; Jaroslav Cimerka, trombonist Innes and Kryle Bands; Gustav Langenu, formerly first clarinetist of the New York Philharmonic; and Joscha Genewich whom Mr. Sousa considers the best Saxophone soloist his band has ever had.

Students of the fretted instruments not only receive the benefits of his training under Alfred Quartullo, graduate of the Conservatory of Milan, Italy, and David Berend, banjoist with Vincent Lopez, but are given a thorough schooling in business harmony, chord analysis, transposition, and modulation, so that they can improvise their own parts for any piano score.

Mr. Meltzer will be at the Community House, Winnetka, every Saturday morning and on Monday afternoons and evenings. Appointments can also be made at any time by phoning University 7615.

SHOWS HOW SCHOOL IS AIDING BLIND WORKERS

Hadley Correspondence Accomplishing Remarkable Results With Sightless Students

By Alfred Allen

(Executive secretary, Hadley Correspondence School for the Blind)

Despite their blindness, the vast majority of the more than 100,000 sightless people of America have no desire to capitalize their affliction; and, in fact, they are, themselves, trying to find ways and means, legislative or otherwise, to prevent the comparatively few but unfortunately all too obvious cases of begging on the streets.

The blind beggar is, to the blind, of the type which will beg under any circumstance, and because it is this type which the public is most likely to come in contact with, the blind as a group feel its harmful effect in the doubt and suspicion with which their assurance of competency is met by employers.

Seek Chance to Work

Notwithstanding this, many blind people are engaged in remunerative employment, are happy in the service they are rendering, and in the knowledge that each as an individual is strengthening the claim of the group that it can adequately fulfill a useful place in the world. It is from among such people that we can learn many lessons.

Among its 450 students, the Hadley Correspondence School for the Blind can point with pride to many who have come to find themselves through their contact with the school. No doubt those who are the patrons of the school have wondered what good has been done in specific cases, and there follows below a brief summary of a few cases which seem inspiring:

A. McD., living in Canada, is not only blind, but a crippled paralytic. For twenty years he has lain on his back, unable to move. But sunshine radiates from this boy, for he is happy in his contact with the Hadley Correspondence School. He has learned to write stories, and hopes to make himself self-supporting through their sale.

Studies Law

E. W., a blind boy in Iowa, was unable to read braille when he made his first contact with the school, immediately after an explosion had taken away his sight. Life and progress seemed to stop. Now he is in his second year at the State university, studying for the law profession. His inspiration came through the school.

C. C. of New Orleans studied our course in Life Insurance. He has made a remarkable selling record since his connection with an insurance company.

R. P. of California, now successfully conducting a grocery business, was a few years ago, most despondent. He tried to end things. Now he is writing stores in his spare hours, and studying French to aid him to build up his business in a foreign-speaking section of his community. He learned a good deal about English through the school, being himself a Spaniard.

W. B. of Florida is half way through college. He writes that his only source of encouragement in spite of many discouragements has been through The Hadley Correspondence school. He hopes to become a lawyer.

Settlement Worker

M. G. of Massachusetts is studying French. She is a home-teacher of industrial crafts, and is studying that she may render better service among the French settlement in her territory.

F. Van Y. of Colorado writes that the course which he has taken in business law has helped him tremendously. He is conducting a goat-ranch.

J. McC. of Pennsylvania, a war-blinded soldier, who has raised prize chickens and who is now in college, gives us much credit for having successfully completed two years of work.

A. U. of Texas is studying Spanish, that he may be better fitted for the career he is planning. He is paralyzed and blind.

W. E. of Texas, a blind lawyer, says he has gained a great deal through having taken our course in Spanish. It has helped him to deal with Mexican clients.

Conducts News Agency

E. A. K. of Pennsylvania is successfully conducting a magazine agency. He has learned a great deal through our course in salesmanship.

N. M. of Ohio has studied our course in salesmanship. She and her husband (also blind) write that the course has helped them immeasurably.

F. B. of Missouri, who says she is called "The Little Preacher" by her many friends, writes that her course in Bible Studies helped her in conducting her Sunday-School classes and in other church work.

RETURNS FROM EAST

Miss Dorothy Duncan, 237 Cumnor road, Kenilworth, will return to her home this Sunday from New York city where she has been visiting for the past seven weeks. In addition to New York city, Miss Duncan included a number of other eastern cities in her trip, among them being Washington, D. C.

RUMMAGE SALE A SUCCESS

The Senior class of the Mallinckrodt High school held a rummage sale in the school auditorium on Friday afternoon, October 28. The sale was a big success. The amount cleared was $100 and this money will be donated to the Catholic missions of America.

Mrs. A. Oppenheim of the North Shore hotel in Evanston entertained twelve of her friends at luncheon and mah jongg last Saturday.
