

N. T. Intramural Football Schedule at Half Way Mark

Unique to most high school athletic programs and equally unusual in university circles, the New Trier High school intramural football system reached the half-way mark in its scheduled program this week with over 100 boys voluntarily participating and its position established as one of the most successful athletic organizations known to educational institutions.

Organized under the direction of the New Trier Physical Education department and under the personal supervision of Coaches Showley, Funkhauser, Persing, Paletti, Oaks and Weir, six teams, divided equally between the lightweight and heavyweight divisions, are now playing off schedules arranged much after the fashion of a regular conference program.

Previous to the starting of actual inter-team competition each squad was given a three weeks training course, during which the boys were drilled in the rudiments of football in all of its departments, the teams were organized, and formations and plays were worked out. During this period also the boys received physical training intended to prepare them for the games that have followed.

With this preparation as a background the teams entered about three weeks ago upon their schedules of four games with each of the other two eight games to be played by each team in their divisions, a total of squad. Since that time competition has been exceptionally keen and with the schedule about half completed the boys are preparing for the hardest part of the series.

The standing of the teams at the first of this week were as follows:

Heavyweight Division
	Won	Lost	Tied	T. P.
Wildcats	3	1	1	14
Bull Doogs	2	2	2	12
Pirates	1	3	1	6
Lightweight Division
	Won	Lost	Tied	T. P.
Dartmouth	3	0	2	16
Notre Dame	2	1	2	12
Northwestern	0	3	2	4

Speaker at Neighbors Explains World Court

The meeting of Neighbors which took place on Tuesday was in charge of the department of philanthropy, with Mrs. Gilbert Kelly, chairman. Mrs. Kelly introduced the speaker of the day, Dr. Allen D. Albert. The subject of his lecture, "The Reduction of War," was a most timely one coming so near to Armistice day. Dr. Albert is not a pacifist but believes that military training for young men and adequate national defense is best. He spoke of the staggering expense of money and life in the late war and said that it was almost inconceivable the amount of good along educational lines and social betterment that this amount of money could do. Dr. Albert is in hearty sympathy with the World Court and deplors the fact that we as a nation are not yet admitted to that body which has for its object "preservation of peace by the codification of international law." He told his audience just what the World Court meant.

It was a most interesting meeting and well attended and the message of the lecturer was enthusiastically received.

Hardin Van Duersen, baritone, sang a very lovely group of songs and was encored a number of times. Miss Albright accompanied at the piano.

Among the affairs being given for Miss Jeannette Cherry of 422 Abbottsford road, Kenilworth, who is to be one of the autumn brides, are the tea given Friday, October 28, by Mrs. Charles Howe of Kenilworth, and the reception given Thursday by Mrs. Arthur Adair and Mrs. John Marshall Roberts at the Adair home in Kenilworth.

Zoologist

Miss Grace Eager, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Eager, 1312 Elmwood avenue, Wilmette, left Wednesday, November 2, to start work as an artist for the Department of Zoology in the Zoology Museum of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, Mich. Miss Eager graduated from New Trier in 1919. She received her B. A. degree from the Western College for Women, Oxford, Ohio, in 1924. In 1924 and 1925 she studied and assisted the Zoology department of Northwestern university. For the last two years she has been definitely preparing for such a position as she has just accepted. She has been working with Max Brodel in his studio of medical illustrating in the Johns Hopkins Medical school at Baltimore, Md., in addition to studies and research in zoology at the Johns Hopkins university, where she received the M. A. degree last June.

THE NORSHORE

Norshore theater audiences will be greeted with a host of surprisingly novel effects Sunday when Al Kvale opens his new production, "A Jazz Festival."

Much that is new in stage trickery, dance routines, lighting effects and musical selections will be introduced during the presentation. Every scene will reveal some pleasant new surprise to delight the audience.

Heading the bill will be Peggy Bernier, the clever songstress who is being held over for a second week.

SNOW BALL FOR SHORE

A "Snow Ball" will be the annual Arden Shore benefit ball of this season, to take place Friday, Nov. 25 at the Palmer house grand ball room. A fashion show will be staged by the season's debutantes during the evening. There will be other dance stunts and novelty numbers. Mrs. Lloyd Smith Shaw is general chairman.

OPEN GYM HOUSE

The Kenilworth gymnasium classes opened this week for the winter sessions with one of the largest enrollments in the history of the Community Recreation center. Registration was held on Monday and the first girls' dancing classes were held the following day. Boys' gym work started on Thursday.

The Special United Thank Offering service at the Church of the Holy Comforter, held Monday at 10 o'clock, was very well attended and the offering, which was from the women of the parish, was most generous and very gratifying to the workers in this field.

Camp Fire Sparks

The question is often asked as to just what Camp Fire is, and what makes it so attractive to girls of the "teen age." Camp Fire recognizes the normal instinct of the girl to want to "belong" to something, and offers a program that is varied enough to satisfy that social instinct, as well as to give her a chance for self-expression. It offers her an opportunity to develop team work and group activity. It has been called a program of fun that is character building. It is all that, and more, too. It is a program which instills the ideals of womanhood and citizenship into the growing girl. It increases her ability to do useful things. Under the teachings of Camp Fire, most remarkable changes in mental attitudes toward the homely, necessary duties of the home and daily life, take place in the lives of the girls. It stimulates to leadership. The growing girl needs a high ideal expressed through an adequate symbol, kept alive by active service in concrete and definite ways. That is just what Camp Fire, when properly conducted, accomplishes for her.

It works through a system of honors and ranks, and by means of its seven "crafts" offers practically every worthwhile and wholesome activity that would naturally interest a young girl. Under these are listed over a thousand things that a girl may do, and for which she may receive recognition. Many of them may be won again and again—thus forming valuable habits—and habit in turn developing character. It stimulates good health habits, promotes a strong home program, and offers delightful out-of-door activities.

Any girl eleven years old or over is eligible for membership. Winnetka Camp Fire headquarters are at Community House. Mrs. Wortley, general chairman, will be glad to confer with those who are interested.

Kenilworth Boy Now Student at Oxford

By V. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Burnham have recently returned from England where they accompanied their son, James, to Oxford university. The story of the first days in the quaint English town and the very different sort of reception a boy receives when he enters this English university from one here in America was most interesting.

The historic old buildings, rising from the very sidewalks, austere and unresponsive, might dampen the ardor of many students and when James finally found his room and living quarters, the tiny room with its single bed and the sitting room with its very small fireplace, it was a vast contrast to his former comfortable and cozy home at Princeton.

The weather was bleak and chill and the buildings, without heat, even colder. But James soon discovered many fascinating and unusual little customs and after his first formal dinner with the head masters and his special tutor, he was thoroughly interested in his new prospects and his letters home are most enthusiastic.
