Village Celebrates Fifth Anniversary During Coming Week

The Village theater this coming week will observe two anniversaries, Thanksgiving and the anniversary of the opening of the theater under the present management just five years ago. In commenting upon the fact, Manager J. B. Koppel stated that a contract with the film producers has just been signed, assuring the pick of the best pictures for the coming year, and that prospects for the season are good. He also expressed his appreciation of the extensive circle of friends which the Village has enjoyed and urged patrons to at any time feel perfectly free to offer suggestions or make requests as to the programs presented.

John Barrymore's "When a Man Loves" will be the opening attraction for the week, having been billed for the first three days. The picture is based on French history during the reign of Louis XV. Barrymore plays the part of Fabien DesGrieux and Dolores Costello the part of Manon Lescaut, two French youths whose devotion has been to religion until a chance meeting arouses within each the fires of unquenchable love. To quote the New York Journal: "Manon played by the exquisitely languid Dolores Costello, is characterized sympathetically and Barrymore is dashing romantic."

Monte Blue in "One Round Hogan," a Warner Bros. production, will be presented on Thursday and Friday. "One Round Hogan" is a fight film and incidentally a love story, lovely Leila Hyams supplying the motivation for "One Round Hogan's" cyclonic performances during several ring scenes, which the directorial genius of Howard Brether-ton has made unbelievably realistic. Blue has never been better than in this red-blooded fighting play, which offers him a part so well suited to his virile personality. Best fight film of the year.

"The Lone Eagle," a Universal-Jewel production, featuring Raymond Keane and Barbara Kent with a splendid supporting cast of screen favorites, will be showing Saturday.

A screen adaptation of Lieutenant Ralph Blanchard's thrilling story of aviators during the world war, "The Lone Eagle" is a picture that has attracted particular interest throughout the country because of the vividness with which it portrays the actual happenings of the intrepid flyers during the fevered war period.

Minturns Present "Seventh Heaven" at Chateau Monday

A play that has some element of appeal for every class of theater-goer is "Seventh Heaven," one of John Golden's greatest long-run successes, which will be presented by the Minturn Players next week, opening Monday evening at the Chateau Theater.

It is dramatic, humorous, romantic. It is laid in an unusual setting, a back slum of Paris, and yet it has moments of surpassing beauty. One moment it is terrorized in the grip of fear, but not for long, for shortly it buds into a most beautiful romance.

Human courage is the play's theme. Its central characters are Diane, a beaten, neglected waif of the slums; Chico, a buoyant young street washer who befriends Diane; Nane, the absinthe-soaked sister of Diane; a golden-headed French priest, a thieving but generous taxi-driver and a nameless character programmed as the Sewer Rat.

How Diane and Chico find happiness in a garret which they affectionately term their "Seventh Heaven" only to be torn apart at the outbreak of the Great war and chastened in the crucible of human suffering attending the conflict, is told in a play of virility and color that suggests an earlier story of the French capital, "The Two Orphans."

When the war comes and goes, leaving in its wake the poor broken shell of the street washer, forever blind to the sunlight he loves, the Bon Dieu whose existence he has doubted is convincingly present in the loving ministrations of a woman preserved to him across the long, dark years through his awakening faith.

COMMUNITY HOUSE

The Community House, Winnetka, is featuring "Painted Poonies," a Hoot Gibson picture, for Tuesday, November 22. In addition, the fourth chapter of "Blake of Scotland Yard" will be shown.

"Beau Geste," one of the most outstanding of the year's big pictures featuring Ronald Coleman, will be the presentation on Friday. This story of three brothers and their undying affection for one another is one that pleases without fail.

Emil Jannings in "The Way of All Flesh" will be at the Varsity the first three days of next week. Belle Bennett, star of "Stella Dallas," and Phyllis Haver of "What Price Glory," play with Mr. Jannings in the leading roles of this picture.

Sophie at Norshore

Sophie Tucker, recently with "Gay Paree" at the Four Cohens, will be at the Norshore all next week. Sophie, one may feel certain, will sing—Sophie has a habit of singing upon such occasions. Can she sing? Well I guess mebbe! And how!
