Hold Services for Carrie D. Patrick From Glencoe Home

Funeral services for Mrs. Carrie Danforth Patrick, wife of Dr. Zorah E. Patrick, who passed away on Sunday, December 11, were conducted from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Franck C. Wright, 829 Greenwood avenue, Glencoe, last Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Patrick had been well known in Chicago and along the north shore for many years. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Asa H. Danforth of Washington, Ill., and during her girlhood days spent much of her time studying music in Chicago where she made a vast circle of life-long friends.

She was married to Dr. Zorah E. Patrick of Washington in 1877, Dr. Patrick having just completed a course in the Rush Medical college in Chicago, the last year of which was spent studying at the county hospital because of the destruction of the school buildings in the great Chicago fire. They celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary on the twenty-fourth day of last May with children and grandchildren and Mrs. Patrick's sister, Mrs. H. W. Snow, who was her Matron of Honor at her wedding.

In addition to the vast circle of friends who mourn her passing, Mrs. Patrick is survived by her husband and her daughters, Mrs. Frank C. Wright of Glencoe, Mrs. Cordelia D. Goodhue of Winnetka, and Mrs. Ruth D. Killips of Winnetka and her grandchildren.
