Northwestern Junior Prom
Is Important Social Event

The annual Junior prom, the final affair given at Northwestern university before the Christmas holidays, took place in the Patten gymnasium last Saturday evening. Bert Fox, president of the junior class, lead the right wing of the prom, which is always one of the most important social events of the college year. He was accompanied by Miss Janet Kimbark, while Miss Marion Sprenger, social chairman of the class, led the left wing, escorted by Walter Colbath.

The list of patrons and patronesses headed by President and Mrs. Walter Dill Scott was as follows: Dean Winnifred Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wilson, Captain and Mrs. E. G. Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Leon G. Kranz, Dean and Mrs. Raymond Kent, Dean and Mrs. Ralph Heilman, Dean and Mrs. Peter C. Lutkin, Dean and Mrs. H. G. Harrington, Dean and Mrs. A. D. Black, Dean and Mrs. W. C. Bauer, Professor and Mrs. Philip Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Latham, Dean Mary Ross Potter, and William A. Dyche.

Invite Scandinavians to Early Morning Services

The Rev. A. E. Rohrbach of the Christian Fellowship, Winnetka, will conduct a special morning service in Swedish at Christ church parish house, Winnetka, to which the Scandinavian people of the north shore are invited. His subject will be "The Meaning of Bethlehem." The service begins at 5:30 o'clock in the morning. Mrs. Burton Atwood will be the soloist at this service.

Harriet Mons, 157 Woodstock avenue, Kenilworth, returned from Denison university at Granville, Ohio, Sunday, December 18.

New Trier Active in Spreading Cheer
at Holiday Season

Once more as the Christmas season is upon us and charity is at its utmost, we look to New Trier High school to see how they are responding to the spirit of giving.

The project system which has been successfully practiced for four years in the school is still being used. At the beginning of every year each adviser room chooses something special it wishes to do in the way of charity, and adheres to this throughout the year. If the project is a poor family, the group sees that the family is well taken care of at Thanksgiving and Christmas time, and one adviser room goes as far as furnishing a family with milk for the children throughout the year. Sometimes one adviser room has the same family for more than one year. In this case more detailed work can be done, for the students come in closer contact with those they are assisting.

The project doesn't necessarily have to be a poor family. It may be an orphanage or some similar institution where charity is always welcome. One adviser room in particular, finding that the orphans in a certain home were being taken care of at Christmas, but were in need of bedroom slippers, plans to supply the whole orphanage with warm woolly slippers as a part of the Christmas.

Another project is to furnish entertainment in the old people's homes and for disabled war veterans in hospital wards. And this, though in a different form, is just as charitable as giving to the poor.

Thus we see that New Trier has the true spirit of charitable giving.

Last Wednesday evening at the Kenilworth club there was a large dance given by a group of boys for their friends. Among the hosts for the evening were Robert Sweet and Frank Watt, both of Kenilworth.

SCHEDULE "NO. 17" AS NEXT GUILD OFFERING

English Play Never Produced in New York or Chicago to Be Presented on North Shore

David Owen, director of the North Shore Theater Guild and head of the Dramatic department at Northwestern university, has left for Boston where he will witness a performance of the play which has been chosen as the Guild's next offering. The title of the play is "No. 17," and it is said to be one of the best mystery plays ever written. It will be produced on the north shore during the latter part of January, being presented in local playhouses from Lake Forest to Evanston.

"No. 17" has never been produced in either Chicago or New York. A company of English actors brings it to Boston after a successful run in London. The North Shore Theater Guild has been quite fortunate in securing the privilege of first presenting it in this section of the country.

Genuine Thriller

As a thriller, "No. 17" is comparable with "The Bat" or "The Cat and the Canary," it is said. It keeps with a tingle during its two and one-half hours of playing time, trying to figure out who's who and why. It is skillfully written, and calculated to keep the most dignified audience in an uproar, for it alternates its tense moments with rib-cracking comedy of a high order.

"No. 17" offers a pleasing contrast to the other plays included in this year's program of the North Shore Theater Guild. Whereas "The Romantic Age," its first play, was pleasing because of its quiet good humor, the melodrama will draw forth an entirely different set of reactions. A decidedly different type of play will follow "No. 17," and this will be an elaborate production such as "Henry the IV" was last year, and "The Duenna" the year before. Every year, the Theater Guild makes its third production the most spectacular of the season.

Hold Tryouts Soon

Tryouts for parts in Guild productions will be announced sometime in January. These will be open to newcomers, as well as to those who have formerly acted with the Guild, in order to give the new director an idea of the material that is available. They will be announced following the last performance of "No. 17" in Evanston.

Mrs. and Mrs. Bentley McCloud and family are leaving Kenilworth this Friday for Omaha, Neb., to spend Christmas with Mrs. McCloud's mother. Mr. McCloud will return on Tuesday but the family will remain a few days longer.

Paul F. W. Kehling of 719 Laurel avenue has as his guest during the holiday season, his mother, who has come on from her home in California.
