One Girl's Garment Per Family

The Smile That Won't Come Off

IT IS WOMAN'S heritage to love beautiful clothes . . . her happiness from youth into old age. Cultivate this natural desire if you would train your daughter to take her intended place at maturity . . . as one whose clothes will add charm to the person.

A convenient time to start girls on this road to the "right" is during the week of January 23rd, when we will clean one garment for every girl of the community under 12 years of age Absolutely Free! National Week For Cleaning School Children's Garments . . . not only to make them clean and ready for wear at school again, but to remove contagious germs which endanger child health.

Launched on Trip Around World When Aunt Breaks Ankle

Less than a week before she was to start on a trip around the world, Mrs. F. H. Cromlie of Spokane, Wash., visiting with her sister, Mrs. E. S. Harlan of 430 Sheridan road, Kenilworth, slipped on the front steps and fell, breaking her ankle. She was rushed to the Evanston hospital where the fractured bones were set and where she is now convalescing.

The accident, which occurred on Wednesday of last week, presented an unusual situation, however, for passage on a steamer leaving New York on Monday of this week had already been booked and another sister, Mrs. C. M. Schindel of Colville, Wash., was awaiting Mrs. Cromlie's arrival in New York.

A hasty survey of the problem offered but one solution—the procurement of some other person to take the trip. Preparing for such an extended trip in scarcely more than forty-eight hours loomed as quite an obstacle to overcome but Miss Helen Harlan, tackled the problem with considerable haste and more than an exceptional amount of determination.

Saturday morning found Miss Harlan well on the road to New York City and last Monday she was listed as a passenger on a liner being warped out into the river for quick passage to the sea. Cuba, the Panama canal, the Orient, India, Egypt, the Holy Land, Italy, Spain, England—all lie before her. "It seems that 'fate' may turn with even an ankle," Miss Harlan's friends remarked.

REJECT BIDS

The Kenilworth Village board, at a special session Thursday night of last week, rejected all bids on the construction of the new Kenilworth Water plant, and voted to re-advertise for bids.

This action was taken following the opening of bids at a meeting the preceding Monday night and the subsequent meeting Thursday, when all bids were declared to be much in excess of the engineer's estimate.
