Begin Deliveries of New North Shore Line Rolling Stock

Most of the new equipment and rolling stock recently ordered by the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad at a total cost of over $900,000, has been received and placed in service. Final shipments of 10 lightweight double-track safety cars have been made by the St. Louis Car company. Five of these cars, embracing all the latest safety devices, are now in service on the Milwaukee City lines and three more will soon be added to this service. Two cars will be used on the Waukegan City lines.

Two-trolley storage-battery freight locomotives have been delivered by the General Electric company and the American Locomotive company, and are now being used in general freight service. The storage-battery equipment on these locomotives enables them to handle freight on tracks not equipped with overhead power facilities.

Final deliveries also have been made on 15 new steel semi-trailers which are used in door-to-door overnight freight shipments between Chicago and Milwaukee. Other equipment recently received for this service included three five-ton tractors for hauling the containers to and from receiving stations.

Construction work on 15 additional steel passenger motor-cars, two dining cars and one parlor-observation car has been started by the Pullman Car and Manufacturing company. These cars are scheduled to be placed in service on the main line next May and June.

Romantic Traveler

Richard Halliburton, the romantic literary adventurer whose unique achievements have made him focus of general attention for the last several years, will appear in Evanston at 8:15, Friday evening, Feb. 10.

He will lecture at the First Presbyterian church under auspices of its Women's organization, relating the adventures which have afforded keen enjoyment and fascination to audiences in the larger cities of America.

He is author of "The Royal Road to Romance" and "The Glorious Adventure"—books which tell of his travels during which he swam the Hellespont, climbed Olympus, ran the Marathon over the original course, scaled the Acropolis walls by night, charged up Mt. Parnassus, danced through the Vale of Tempe, made a lone pilgrimage to the sequestered grave of Rupert Brooke on a lonely Grecian isle, almost swam the evil straits between Scylla and Charybdis, ran three times around the walls of Troy, found the Lotus Land and eventually came, as did Ulysses, back to the very hilltop where the royal wanderer slaughtered the hundred suitors of Penelope.

Young Mr. Halliburton at 27 is reputed to bring to the platform the irrepressible spirit and impetuosity of youth, and appears as a poet of charm and tenderness who refuses to be disillusioned by the hardships and realities of life.
