

Hubbard Woods Pupils Relate Story of Earth

An illustrated review of the probable process of development of the earth and life on the earth from the very earliest stage to time in development known by geologists as the Trias and the Mesozoic periods, was given by pupils of Miss Ruth Damberg's fourth grade of the Hubbard Woods school last Thursday morning during the assembly period.

The pupils outlined the theory of earth formation regarded as most plausible by scientists and demonstrated with charts and drawings the formation of the mountains and seas. They then discussed the probable cycle of life development and displayed pictures which they had drawn of the various animals inhabiting the earth at different periods.

Particularly interesting to their audience were the pictures of dinosaurs which inhabited the earth at one time. These, the children explained, were reptile-like creatures that were extremely large and took all kinds of shapes—some looking like a combination bird and snake, some like a combination snake and alligator and others that had an appearance entirely different from anything or combinations of things we now have.

"Land of Oz" Draws Large Audience of Winnetkans

The Junior Leaguers who brought their "Land of Oz" to Skokie School auditorium Wednesday, from the Harris theater in Chicago, were greeted by a full house. The audience was, of course, largely made up of children, who kept their eyes wide open and glued on the stage, and were perfectly quiet except between the acts.

Perhaps the outstanding character in the play was the small boy, Tip, played by Mrs. John R. Winterbotham. Miss Peggy Hambleton was the wicked witch and Mrs. Murray P. Brush, Jr., was the beautiful princess. The Tin Woodman, Mrs. John L. Cochran, and the scarecrow, Mrs. Robert Morrison, made a fine team, that, with Jack, the Pumpkinhead, (played by Jean Logan), supplied much of the humor of the piece. The play itself was dramatized from the original story by Mrs. Charles Barnett Goodspeed.

The success of the play has been so great in Chicago that the players have decided to continue it for two more Saturdays, instead of giving the last performance this morning, as had been planned.

Mrs. Preston Boyden to Read at School Assembly

Mrs. Preston Boyden of 806 Rosewood avenue, prominent young society woman who has gained singular fame in literary circles because of her poems, read for the children of the Hubbard Woods school during the assembly period yesterday. Mrs. Boyden read a group of her own poems for children, several of which were published in the "Book of Verse," compiled by the Junior League of America recently.

Miss Mary Martha Gedge, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gedge of 1106 Elm street, is recovering nicely at her home from a tonsil operation undergone Tuesday morning at the Evanston hospital.

At Woman's Society

On Wednesday, February 15, a regular meeting of the Woman's society of the Winnetka Congregational church will be held. During the morning sewing period, Mrs. Edwin E. Brown will talk about the organizations to which the society contributes during the year, so that the members will feel in closer touch with this important phase of their work.

Miss Katsu Yonezawa of Kobe, Japan, will sing, and the devotional period will be led by Mrs. Stanley Farwell. Following luncheon at 12:15, Miss Isabelle McCausland, head of the social science department of the college, will give an illustrated talk about Kobe college, a social force in the new Japan. Because it is interdenominational in character, it is hoped that many women from the Episcopal church may attend this meeting.

Kobe college has been called "a bulwark of international understanding." It is the only Christian college for women in western Japan, in a population of 15,000,000 and the Empire has only one other of equal rank. To those who like to think in terms of interdenominationalism, this college will make an appeal, for nine denominations are represented in the student body and six in the faculty of 75 members, 80 per cent of whom are Japanese.

The college was founded in 1875 as a primary school for girls. After becoming an academy, followed by the introduction of college courses, it was given in 1919 the title of "Daigaku" meaning "educational institution of highest grade."

Japan is now one of the great powers. Her people are alert, virile, astute, and progressive; in native ability they are said to be the peer of any other race. But 68,000 women in Japan are working underground, 80 per cent of Japanese women in industry are under 20 years of age, and their average working week is 63 hours, with only one or two holidays a month.

By raising the status of womanhood, and thus of the entire population of the empire; by winning the profound respect of all Japan, especially of the official class; by creating intelligent Christian homes and by training women as teachers and as leaders in social service, in bettering public health, morals, and industrial conditions, Kobe college proves her worth.
