Girl Pianist Scores in Chicago Studio Recital

(contributed)
Sunday, February 5, Miss Winifred Mickey, pianist, of Wilmette, assisted by Miss Gertrude Gartner, soprano, gave the first of the young artists' recitals in the Knupfer studios, Fine Arts building, Chicago.

Throughout the program Miss Mickey displayed a facile technique and marked interpretive ability. The Bach-Tausig Toccata and Fugue were played with dignity and sonority of tone. In the Schumann and Chopin group she exhibited fine feeling for strongly-marked rhythms and singing legato.

The Pierne suite proved to be a delightful novelty, the charm and whimsy of which were well-conveyed in the performance, and Miss Mickey effectively concluded her program with the brilliant Sequidilla, of Albeniz.

This young artist will be remembered in her performance of Liszt's Hungarian Fantasy, last season, with the Little Symphony Orchestra, conducted by George Dasch.

Miss Mickey's groups comprising her recent recital program, follow:
Toccata and Fugue D Minor, Bach-Tausig
Aufschwung ..... Schumann
Nachtstueck ..... Schumann
Widmung ..... Schumann-Liszt
Ballade G Minor ..... Chopin
Album "Pour Mes Petits Amis" ..... Pierne
Pastorale
Farandole
La Veillee de l'ange Gardien
Petite Gavotte
Chanson d'autrefois
Marche des Petits Soldats de Plomb
Prelude ..... Debussy
In a Boat ..... Zuckwer
L'Alouette ..... Glinka-Balakirew
Sequidilla ..... Albeniz

W. T. Wersted Depicts Varied Activities Claiming Interest of Business Folk

William T. Wersted, a former president of the Winnetka Chamber of Commerce and who has been decidedly active in its affairs including its organization on March 20, 1923, spoke at the February meeting of that organization Monday evening on "What the Chamber has Accomplished." He said:

"It is a great pleasure to see many of our plans achieved or coming to their fruition. But I think it might be interesting, (if you will pardon my digression) especially to some of the younger merchants, to refer back to the year 1904, when about ten or twelve business men of this town felt the desire of meeting together to have a sociable evening and talk over their affairs and get acquainted. Only about two such meetings were held, I am told, and they were in the Woman's club building. Perhaps organized effort was not so much heard of in those days and no more was done until the year 1913 or 1914, (the records are not clear as to the exact date) when the New Trier Commercial association was formed.

Outgrowth of Township Body

"This organization began in Winnetka, and after much plugging and solicitation by some of the old workers, it gradually grew to include business men from Wilmette, Gross Point, Kenilworth and Glencoe. The secretary's office was later shifted to Wilmette, where it remained until it was displaced by the formation of Chambers of Commerce in each of the three towns of Wilmette, Winnetka and Glencoe. This early organization paved the way for what was to follow, and many of these pioneers were active in organizing our present Chamber in 1923. At that time there were 73 active memberships, which have grown to the present total of 156, or about 75 percent of the 205 total business firms and professional men of Winnetka. In speaking of Winnetka, I mean, of course, the Hubbard Woods, Elm street and Indian Hill districts. And when I refer to business men and merchants, I also wish to include professional men, for many of them are, and logically so, members of our Chamber.

"Now what has the Chamber of Commerce accomplished? I think the evidence of a very important part of its work is right here in this room. You men and women have become better acquainted with each other, have learned some of each other's problems, ambitions and aspirations and you have, no doubt, found many good qualities in your competitor who, heretofore, in your own imagination, wore horns behind his ears. How much better it is to work together toward a common good; and who can say that the Chamber of Commerce has not brought the business men together in a way which no other organization could have done?

"Last winter in a certain city in Kansas was a man who owned a large floral business. During a spell of zero weather he suddenly found himself without competent help. Within thirty minutes his competitor, on hearing of his plight, sent over several experienced men to care for the flowers, which would have been frozen and damaged to the extent of several thou-
