

Joyriders Learn Winnetka Police Labor All Night

When three Chicago youths, accompanied by two of their girl friends persuaded an employe in a garage on Lawrence avenue to loan them a patron's car in which to take a "joy ride," they were not aware, as they headed the car towards Winnetka, that there are two such individuals as Sergeant Ed Cummings and Patrolman Frank Rayburn patrolling the streets of that village all night long.

The joy-riders stopped their car on Spruce street, between Birch and Prospect, where they were laughing and talking loudly when the Winnetka police squad car, with Cummings and Rayburn aboard, came that way.

At the station the young men explained how they came in possession of the car, and from the license number, the officers learned the name of the owner. The boys were locked up, and the girls taken to their homes by Policewoman, Mrs. G. M. Thurston.

The owner of the car, Odin Helsing, came out Thursday afternoon, settled with the young men for $25 for damage to the car, and preferred a charge of disorderly conduct against each of them, for which, upon pleas of guilty before Police Magistrate C. T. Northrup, each paid a fine of $5 and costs.

They gave their names as Melvin Baranoff, 4838 North Sawyer avenue; R. Strauss, 4939 North Kedzie avenue; N. Galler, 4516 North Troy street.
