Johnny's Golf Hints

The greatest number of strokes are thrown away in a round of golf, when it comes to the short pitch shots within 100 yards of the flag. Very noticeable on the links each day are the incorrect swings that are made when mashie niblic is being used. The mashie niblic is a golf club and should be used as such. Avoid all chopping, pushing, swaying, etc. Swing the club and prevent scooping, as the latter is the source of a great deal of trouble. The mashie niblic swing is practically the same as the mashie, which I described last week. The greatest fault is looking up too soon, and by so doing it is impossible to get under the ball, for when you raise your head, your shoulders also raise, thus causing a topped shot. Keep your gaze on the spot where the ball was until your stroke is completed, as following the ball after it has been hit won't straighten its flight anyway. Before playing your shots, look them over, figure your distance and direction, take your stance, hit the ball, and keep your head down until you have completed the swing. If you will keep this in mind, your score will improve without a doubt.
