

Women's Clubs to Sponsor Chicago Homes Exposition

A well-equipped homes exposition, to be sponsored by the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs, will be held in Chicago May 14 to 18, according to a statement issued from state headquarters this week by Mrs. J. Marc Fowler, chairman of the federation's well-equipped home committee.

The exposition will be held at the Stevens hotel in conjunction with the federation's thirty-third annual convention and will be under the direction of Mrs. Clarence G. Goodwin.

Exhibits of the Home Bureau of the University of Illinois, and of the Department of Home Economics of the University of Chicago are already being arranged. Booths showing labor-saving devices and home comforts; heating, lighting, ventilating and plumbing equipment; decorations and furnishings; building and garden plans, and everything that goes to make up the complete home, will be included.

The exposition is to be the climax of a four months' state-wide "better homes" campaign launched in January and based on the results of a survey of living conditions in 153 communities throughout the state.
