Invite to Free Lecture at the Field Museum

A free illustrated lecture on Madagascar will be given Saturday afternoon, March 24, at Field Museum of Natural History. Dr. Ralph Linton, leader of the Captain Marshall Field Anthropological Expedition to Madagascar, who recently returned after more than two years of exploration and ethnological research in that island possession of France off the southeast coast of Africa, is the lecturer. Dr. Linton is assistant curator of Oceanic and Malayan ethnology at the museum.

Adventure Island Campers to Gather at Reunion Apr. 14

With the return of Charles A. Kinney, director of Adventure Island camp, from Fairhope, Ala., last week, plans are under way by the boys of the camp for their annual reunion, to be held in the Winnetka Community House, Saturday afternoon and evening, April 14.

While in the South the past two winters Mr. Kinney spent much of his time in small boat cruising in the Gulf of Mexico, and Florida and Alabama waters, a part of the time with thirteen boys, in boats which they had built under his direction.

As a result of his experiences cruising with boys, Mr. Kinney has worked out plans for a very lightweight boat similar to the Eskimo kayak, very safe for boys, and simple enough in construction for the average boy of twelve to build.

One of these boats will be on display at the reunion, as an example of the type of boat which each boy may build for himself at camp this summer.

For cruising with boys the craft has proven almost ideal, being very easy to paddle, very stable, and so light in weight that it may easily be carried upon the beach at any place or any time the fleet wishes to rest or make a camp. For young boys the kayak type of craft, as modified by Mr. Kinney, has every advantage of the open canoe, plus a degree of safety impossible to the canoe, it is explained.

The program for the reunion provides for some typical camp stunts, camp songs, an initiation, the camp movies, and, most important to the boys, the camp dinner.

The Rev. Henry S. Gatley, Episcopal rector at Appleton, Wis., a member of the camp staff, will preside as official story-teller and toastmaster.

One of the new features of the reunion this year will be the active participation by the fathers and mothers,
