

Students to Study Newspaper Methods in European Cities

Newspapering in Europe for college students, teachers and writers, an educational experiment originated last year by Director H. F. Harrington of the Medill School of Journalism of Northwestern university, will this summer become a pilgrimage to the International Press exhibition at Cologne, Germany, to Bruges, Belgium, where in 1475 Caxton printed the first book in English, and to other foreign literary and journalistic shrines, it is announced.

The party, limited to 25 members, will be called the Blue Pencil Club Abroad. It is to be directed by Prof. Leland D. Case, formerly of the staff of the Paris Herald; Professor Lawrence Martin, editorial writer, The Evanston News-Index, and Harry Hillman of Wilmette, former editor of the Inland Printer. The group will leave Montreal June 29, returning to New York August 24.

Foreign methods of news gathering and newspaper production will be studied, and lectures by European newspapermen on economic and political situations abroad are being arranged. Visits will be made to "The Scotsman" at Edinburgh, the London "Daily Mail" and "Le Matin" and overseas editions of the New York "Herald Tribune" and Chicago "Tribune" in Paris.

Training in feature writing will be given enroute. A miniature daily newspaper will be issued on board ship, and ideas for magazine articles will be collected to be written up later. Several of the party, it is expected, will correspond for American papers, writing series of tales of little adventures abroad.

Numerous features are being arranged to enable members to mingle in the life abroad. An eight-day motor tour to literary monuments in Scotland and England has been announced. It will include Abbotsford, Sir Walter Scott's home; Morningside, home of Robert Louis Stevenson; Wordsworth's Dove Cottage, Stratford-on-the-Avon, and Dickens' "Olde Curiosity Shop."

It is expected that many local teachers will attend.

A separate meeting of the Parent-Teacher representatives will also be held. Dr. Alexander Micklejohn of the University of Wisconsin will be the speaker at the luncheon meeting and will talk on "Problems of the School Curriculum."

Praises Efficiency of Our Township Officials

The faithful and efficient service of New Trier township officials received deserved recognition at the annual Town meeting held at Community House in Winnetka, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, in an appropriate expression voiced by Benjamin F. Langworthy.

These officials, in the performance of the routine duties of their respective offices, do not come in for the usual share of public recognition so often showered upon office holders.

The annual Town meetings seldom attract a "corporal's guard," and, naturally, the Township officials appreciated the commendation expressed by Mr. Langworthy, who said that he, on behalf of the citizens of the township, wished to congratulate the officials for the efficient manner in which the affairs of the township government were conducted the past year.

Florida Claims Former Residents of Winnetka

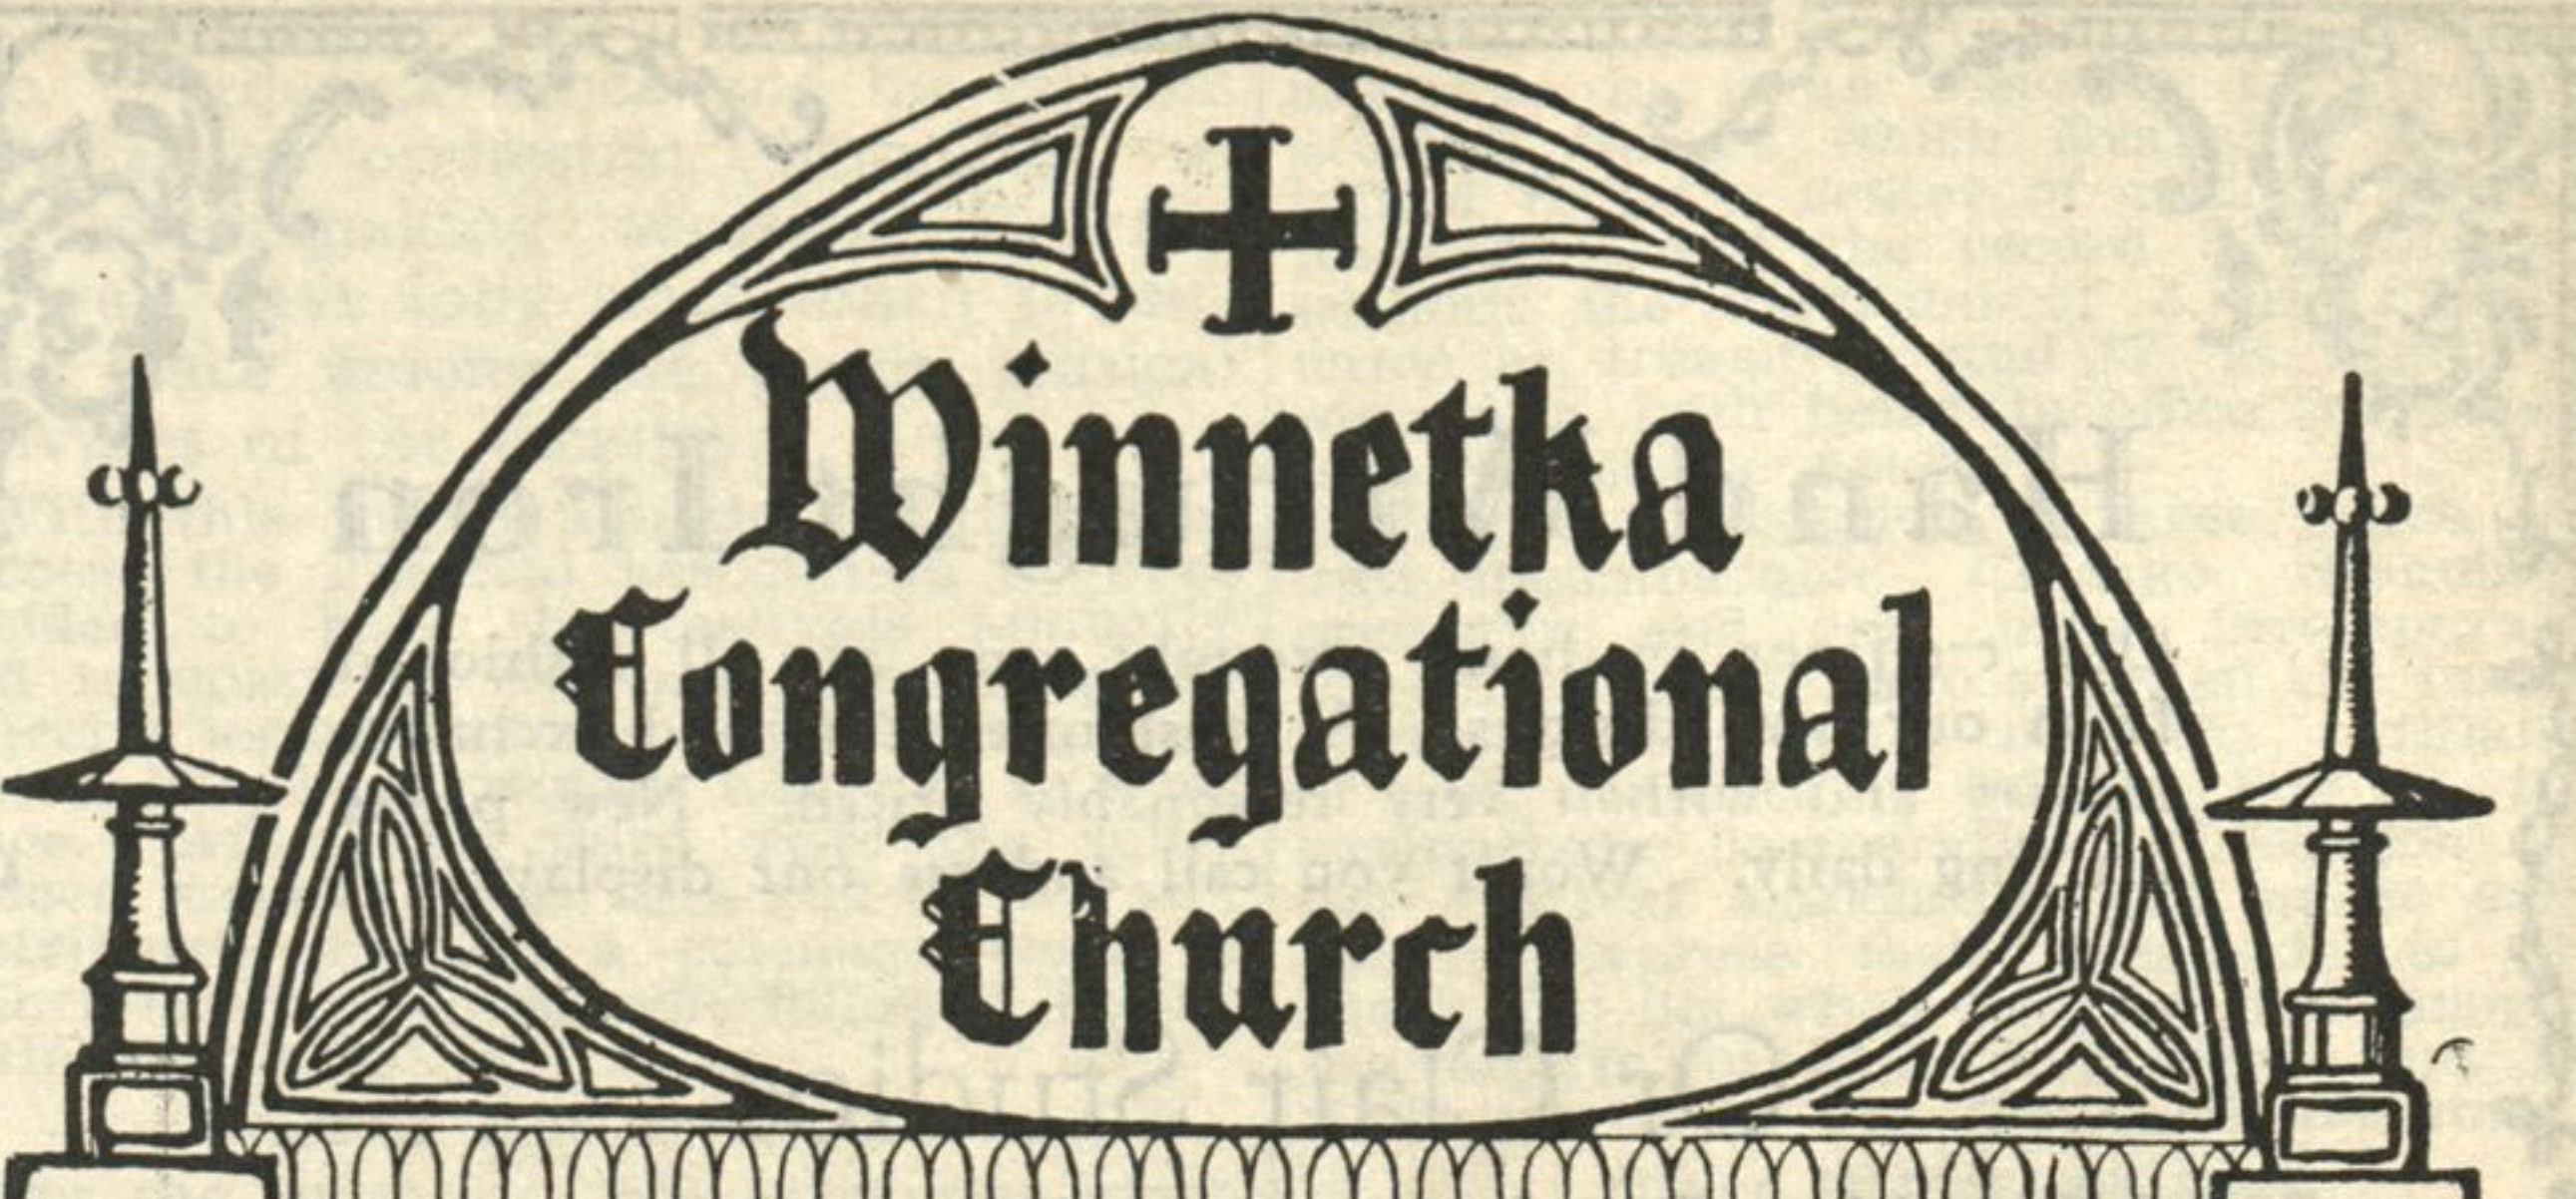

The many old friends of Marshal Shoenthaler, a former resident of Indian Hill road, were much pleased to see him again on his recent visit to Chicago after a two years' absence in Florida. Mr. and Mrs. Schoenthaler have taken up their permanent residence in Winter Haven, Fla. where they have built a charming Spanish house. Mr. Schoenthaler is the Florida representative of the Container Corporation of America.

In this delightful locality, which is in the center part of the state, are also the Norman Streets and the Percy Manchesters, formerly of Winnetka, who are enjoying the ownership of a large citrus grove. Alfred McCordic spent part of the season in Winter Haven.

Mrs. Frederic Ullmann, with her son, Frederic, and Miss Margaret Ullmann, returns early next week to her home, 335 Ridge avenue, after having been in California and Chicago for some time.

Miss Elizabeth Babcock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Babcock, 566 Ash street, returned last Tuesday to Smith college where she is a sophomore. Miss Babcock has been home for about ten days for spring vacation.
