Student Journalists Help Get Out Real Newspapers

Students of the Medill School of Journalism of Northwestern university will get a glimpse of real newspapering during their Easter vacation when they will fill jobs as reporters and copy-readers on forty weekly and daily newspapers.

The student-reporter is required to work during his vacation in order to learn something of the discipline of the city-room and the way in which editors manage their news and features.

The vacation assignment is a part of a required course in field trips, under the director of Philip D. Jordan, instructor in journalism. During the past semester the students have visited the Chicago offices of the Associated Press, the United Press, the Western Newspaper Union, and the Chicago Tribune.

Offer Free Movies for Children at the Museum

Five moving pictures are on the program of the free entertainment for children to be given under the provisions of the James Nelson and Anna Louise Raymond Fund at Field Museum of Natural History Saturday morning, April 7. The films are: "An African Adventure," "The Falcon Hunt," "Chicks," "The Lynx," and "Wonder Book No. 3." They will be shown in the James Simpson theatre of the museum, running continuously from 10 a. m., until noon. All children of Chicago and suburbs are invited.

Newspaper editors have been enthusiastic in making a place for journalism students on their staffs, and many have written the school stating their satisfaction at the practical experience which each student is to have.

Ages from 16 to 66 in Night Classes at N. U. Chicago School

All ages from 16 to 66 are included among the 4,166 students of both sexes attending night classes of the schools of commerce and journalism of Northwestern university on the Alexander McKinlock campus, Chicago, according to a survey just completed by the personnel department of the university.

The women enrolled have an average age slightly above that of the men. The oldest man is 61, and the oldest woman is 66. The average age for men is 23.04, while that of the women is 23.59. Fifty per cent of the men are between 20 and 26 years old and 50 per cent of the women between 20 and 28. These averages are considerably higher than the averages of full time collegiate groups.

Fifty-eight nationalities and combinations of nationalities were listed by the 820 American born students who did not claim American nationality at registration. Two hundred eighty-nine students are foreign born and 35 countries were listed as birthplaces, the four highest being: Canada, 44; Germany, 38; Scandinavian countries, 36 and England 30. Of the 289 foreign born, 142 obtained their secondary education wholly in the United States.

More than 300 of the students in the night classes are now working in executive capacities, including proprietors, general managers, departmental managers and office managers. Others are cashiers, auditors, treasurers, accountants, editors, advertising managers, teachers, engineers, lawyers, dentists, pharmacists, salesmen and clerks.

Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Christopher of 705 Willow road left Tuesday for French Lick, Ind., and will come home Monday.
