Norshore Presenting "The Patsy" During Next Week

Collegiate! Collegiate! And the College Clown, Al Kvale, with his merry-mad "Kvalians" are going to celebrate a great occasion. Al Kvale, idol of Northwestern university, has been elected Mayor of Jazz Town, and his gang are planning an elaborate extravaganza for their next stage show at the Norshore, during the week beginning April 22, entitled "Jazz Town." Al will be there—and how!—in all his majestic graciousness—with silk hat, frock coat and all. He and his trick saxophone will be seated chestily on the Musical Throne of Jazz Town, supremely satisfied with his exalted position. With his enchanted baton, he will draw forth soothing and tantalizing harmony from his bandmen's instruments.

For screen divertissement, Marion Davies, with Marie Dressler, Jane Winton, and Lawrence Grant, will be seen in her latest comedy-romance, "The Patsy." This novel picture, which so rocked loop movie-goers at the Oriental a short time ago, is one dealing with the everyday life of the average American. Its drabness is realistically shown, and its unconscious humor is intriguingly portrayed. Miss Davies has the role of the "kid" of the home, and is accordingly snubbed by her elders, and her opinions disregarded. It is an exceedingly amusing film which should add the necessary finishing touches to a delightful entertainment.

Illinois is the only state that produces optical flourspar.

Here Are Two Films That Offer Good Entertainment

Burton H. Atwood, Jr., director of movies for Community House in Winnetka, has arranged for the showing of "The Valley of the Giants," on Tuesday of next week and "Her Wild Oat" on Friday.

Both of the films are good entertainment.

"Last Command" and "West Point" Teatro Features

Films arranged by Teatro del Lago for the coming week include "The Night Flier," "The Immigrant," "On Your Toes," "The Last Command," "The Mad Hour," and "West Point."

"The Immigrant" and "The Night Flier" are co-featured on this Saturday's program. William Boyd is the star in "The Night Flier" and Charlie Chaplin is the humor specialist in "The Immigrant." Both pictures are good and the two should provide a full evening's entertainment.

Grandma raises Reggy to be a dancing teacher in "On Your Toes," which features—more or less well—Reginald Denny. His father was the undefeated heavyweight champion though Reggy does not know it. Eventually he lands in the ring and of course becomes the champ. The fight is the best part of it.

Same High Standard

Emil Jannings lives up to his usual high standard in "The Last Command," which is his second American made film. As the favorite cousin of the Czar and Grand Duke of Russia, the most important man in the Russian army, he portrays one of the most unusual characters of his career. You'll like it as you have liked all of Jannings' films. They are unusual, distinctive and invariably well done.

"The Mad Hour" is another Elinor Glyn opus. Sally O'Neil and Lowell Sherman are presented as the daughter of a taxi driver and the son of a multi-millionaire, respectively. The story revolves around the manner in which the taxi driver's daughter captures the son and billions via the gin route and yet is dumb enough to sign him away, lose the custody of her baby and go to jail in his honor. The tale will interest you and Sally will prove a surprise.

"West Point" is another of William Haines' smart aleck presentations. Bill gets smarter with every new film and becomes more human with every capitulation that comes as the climax of each of his films. It's a gay and real amusing comedy of the U. S. military academy with real human interest. Joan Crawford is the girl.

"Student Prince" Comes to Varsity Next Monday

Lubliner and Trinz' Varsity in Evanston is featuring "On Your Toes" this Friday and Saturday and "The Student Prince" next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Reginald Denny is starred more or less well in "On Your Toes." Grandma raised Reggy to be a dancing teacher and its probable that the dancing lessons aided him in following the footsteps of his father in becoming the heavyweight champion. The fight is the best part of the film.

"The Student Prince" is one of the most beautiful love stories ever written. Ramon Navarro is his usual brilliant self and Norma Shearer, while somewhat mis-cast, is sparkling and beautiful as Kathie. It is a real worthwhile film and will be liked.

CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY

A special program of features and shorts has been arranged by Manager Sam Meyers of Teatro del Lago for the coming week in observation of the first anniversary of the opening of the theater.
