Council to Revise Plans For Lincoln Ave. Project

The adjourned public hearing on the proposed widening of Lincoln avenue brought forth so much opposition from the resident property owners north of the business district that the Board of Local Improvements decided last Tuesday evening to call for a revised estimate for widening only that portion at the end of the business zoned section, stopping at the north line of the Community Kitchen property. The street is to be widened at both curbs.

The board approved the revised plans for widening the south side of Elm street to the east line of the Masonic temple property, but with no widening on the north side east of Arbor Vitae avenue. The widened section will be paved with brick instead of concrete, the estimated total cost being $8,500.

Chicken-pox and Mumps Lead Contagions Here

The forty-six cases of chicken-pox and twenty-eight cases of mumps in Winnetka during the month of April, constituted more than 80 per cent of the communicable diseases reported during that period, according to the report of Health Officer Dr. H. A. Orvis, to the Village Council Tuesday evening.

There were also two cases of diphtheria; seven of scarlet fever; five of whooping cough; one of German measles, and one of influenza, a total of ninety.

There were at the close of the month thirty-four cases still in quarantine, including two of diphtheria; seven of scarlet fever; five of whooping cough; seventeen of chicken-pox; two of mumps and one of German measles.

Dr. Orvis reported forty-three inspections of food handling places during the past month, all of which scored above 80.

Of the seventeen laboratory reports on milk tests made during the month, five were below standard.

Two cases of rabies were diagnosed both clinically and by laboratory examination.

Four baby clinics were conducted during April, at which there were 39 babies present.
