On awakening at dawn this morning I had a real thrill. Among the bird chorus, which performed every morning in my yard, I heard a new note, that of the whippoorwill. Lest I might be dreaming, with ear attuned I waited to hear that call, and sure enough it was Mr. Whippoorwill, twice in close proximity to my window and a little later over the open spaces of Indian Hill golf grounds. This is my first experience with this rare visitor on the north shore. Three years ago this July at Coloma, Michigan, near the lake, each evening on the stroke of 8, one came to the coping of the back entry of the farmhouse and through the dusk I had my first acquaintance with this rather odd looking visitor. His call was insistent, each note tripping over the other. If one were walking after nightfall this bird would dart swiftly before him close to the ground. This adds one more to the list of feathered friends that come because fresh water and food are always where birds can find them. I left this jingle in the house guest book at Coloma.

In the early morn, when the sun comes up,
The Bob White calls from a road-side stump.
At the hour of noon, when the sun is high,
A bluebird darts athwart the sky.

Over the hills, tho' not far away,
The whippoorwill sings at the close of day.

Songs of birds and lapping of waves
Fill hours with joy these July days.

Community Drama Players Will Perform at Goodman

(Contributed)

Get your tickets for the Goodman theater play next week! Contest of 16 amateur groups is held during four afternoons—Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, May 7, 8, 9, 10. Be sure and go Wednesday, May 9, when the Winnetka Community Drama club is on the bill. Only one hundred tickets are allotted the Drama club, but they are available as long as they last for just two-thirds the price at the door, which is also less than the regular Goodman price. Tickets may be secured from Mrs. Alfred Freeman, Mrs. Carrie Prouty, or from any member of the Community Drama club.

The following list of groups competing in the Little Theater Play tournament is given: The Barnstormers, Wilmette; The Barnum Players; The Carjon Players, Austin; The Bell Telephone Players; Chicago Theological Seminary Players; Cloister Mummies; Community Players of Winnetka; Englewood Players; Northwestern Settlement Players; Play Shop Players of N. U.; Playwrights Theater; Ravenswood Players; Renaissance Players; Threshold Players of Glencoe; Union League Foundation Club for Boys; Uptown Players.

The finals come Sunday evening, May 13, at 8. The four winning plays of the preceding matinees will then compete for the Drama League cup, and $75 will be given each of the four play groups reaching the finals. Come and cheer on the home players, Wednesday, May 9, at 2:15 p. m. The Winnetka women who wish to go in a body should meet at the North Shore Winnetka station in time for the 1:59 car.

Mrs. Sidney Ball will entertain her bridge and luncheon club next week Wednesday at her home in Indian Hill.

A Friend In Need--His Bank Account

UNEXPECTED adversity taught him his lesson. The friends with whom he once spent freely, were nowhere to be found. He found trying to borrow a dollar the hardest task he ever tackled. BUT, once on his feet again, he SAVED as he earned. He realized a Bank Account is one's only real "friend in need!"

Moral: Don't wait until you're in a similar "tight fix." Save while the "saving is easy"—while your earning capacity is at its best!

Yes, Madam—the very best!

NOT just good enough, but the best to be had. Sometimes we think perhaps we're more particular about quality than we need to be—but of course that's impossible. True quality recognizes no limitations.

We're trying to provide the kind of meat market service that we think you'll like. And we believe we are succeeding because we are pleasing so many of your neighbors.

Shall we send it? Right away!
