"Three Sinners,"

Pola Negri Opus,
Norshore Feature

Chicago having been a perfect bevy of excitement for the last three weeks, with the names of Fitzmaurice, the Baron, and Koehl flying from mouth to mouth, Al Kvale and his jazz collegians have also become enthusiasts, and their aerial turn of mind will be seen when they stage their next offering at the Norshore, beginning Sunday, May 27, entitled "Top o' the World."

It will be a fast floor production, mingled with peppy dances and scintillating floods of music, characteristic of the present era in which we are living. Al and his gang will leap from one cloud to another, leading their admirers into a perfect heaven of melodious syncopation and harmony.

Al's popularity has increased so much since his first days as Chief Clown of Paul Ash's gang at the Oriental, and is so steadily increasing, that he is truly sitting atop the world, in a glorious blissful Utopia.

In deliberate opposition to flighty thoughts, Pola Negri will bring audiences down to earth with her latest and best vehicle in years, entitled "Three Sinners," in which she dons a white wig to hide her identity, after a sinful adventure. Warner Baxter, Paul Lukas, the "Barrymore of Hungary," Anders Randolph, Tullio Carminati, the Italian actor, and Olga Baclanova, the Russian, are included in this powerful supporting cast. Miss Negri appears more beautiful than ever before in this drama of false morals and a woman's ruined life, due to a husband's indifference.

Sills' "Burning Daylight" at Varsity This Saturday

Lublimer and Trinz' Varsity is featuring Milton Sills' "Burning Daylight" this Saturday, offering to the public a very nice evening's entertainment. It's an exciting tale of the gold rush days. Doris Kenyon plays the supporting lead.

"The Big City," a Lon Chaney attraction, will be presented on Monday and Tuesday. Lon and Betty are reunited, this time in a crook play in which Lon again proves that he needs no make-up to make him a fascinating person.

"The Golf Widow" is the feature for Wednesday and Mary Pickford in "My Best Girl" on Thursday. The latter film offers some of Mary's best comedy. Buddy Rogers plays opposite Mary in a romantic episode that is Mary at her greatest.

Chemist Explains How Microbes Benefit Man

Microbes, those much slandered little bugs, have found a champion in Dr. Arthur I. Kendall, research professor of bacteriology in the medical school of Northwestern university. "Civilization and mankind owe much to bacteria," he states.

"If it were not for bacteria, you might not have the shining lustrous body on your motor car, for the Duco finish is peculiarly dependent on the little bugs for its success. In the preparation of flax, the tanning of leather, the making of vinegar, the manufacture of white lead for paint, the preparation of synthetic rubber and in many other processes bacteria play an invaluable part."
