L'Envoi

Mique, the esteemed conductor of the humor special that thunders down the right hand column of the editorial page, stole my tornado about two weeks ago and scooped me on my own story. Having thus lost the last vestige of reportorial honor and having been forever disgraced, there remains but to write my own obituary.

For the past year it has been the privilege of the Movie Ed to chat with you each week, telling you the news of the screen or stage and informing you more or less well ("mainly less," remarks the Social Ed, to be completely ignored) of the standing of the current attractions in north shore movieland.

But within a few hours of this reading, the Movie Ed will be enrolled in one of Mr. Pullman's "three by five-and-one-halves" and embarked on a journey to the city where the south begins.

And next week a new Movie Ed will pounce with glee upon his typewriter and teach it new tricks. Thus the old Ed signs off and introduces Pal-Mal, the new one. (Don't look for that signature, he doesn't sign it that way.)

And so, as Mique puts it, "to the land of Derby Days and ravishing femininity." We'd love to keep on singing but it can't be done. So long. See you a bit later.

Al Kvale and Gang at Norshore to Bow to the June Bride

Al Kvale, the musical clown, and his jazz collegians, will doff their hats next week, beginning Sunday, June 3, to those youths who will "take the leap" this month and entitle their latest Norshore stage show "Here Comes the Bride."

June! The magic month, wherein love-sick youths select the one and only girl, and thereby commit themselves to a life term of imprisonment. It is the month of ecstasy, combining blissful happiness with disillusion. This, and more, is contained in the one word, "June," and that month is awaited by many of America's younger generation, whose tactics are the bane of their parents' existences. Frisky elopements and solemn weddings both take place during this enchanting month, with its full moon, lingering shadows and full blown flowers.

It will be a jazzical ceremony. It will have prancing bridesmaids, and torrid bridal syncopation will run rampant throughout the entire program. It will be such a rousing and happy party that it will cause many to reminisce, and many to look eagerly forward to that time when they also will be rigidly strutting toward the altar to the tune of "Here Comes the Bride."

Bebe Daniels will romp across the Norshore screen in her latest starring vehicle, "The Fifty-Fifty Girl." It is a cleverly devised story of a girl who fought for the "equal rights" of the sexes. How she undertakes a man's job, and is forced to recognize man as a valuable asset, forms the theme of this mirth-provoking comedy.

It's Movie Bargain Day at the Community House

"Bargain days" are not confined to drygoods stores it seems, for the Winnetka Community House is advising its patrons this week that next Tuesday will be "bargain day" at the movies.

"Forty-thousand Miles With Lindbergh" is one-half of the main attraction, Rin Tin Tin in "Race for Life" comprising the other half of the program. In addition, a circus story, "The Trail of the Tiger," will be presented.

On Friday, June 8, Marian Davies' "Quality Street" will be featured.
