Search Northwoods for Scout Camp

BOY SCOUTING on the north shore has grown by leaps and bounds during the last few years. In the territory now served by the North Shore Area council, extending from Wilmette to Lake Bluff, inclusive, and from Glenview to Libertyville, almost 1,000 Scouts are now included in the membership. "A Camp of Our Own," is the cry of the Scouts, their leaders, and committeemen as they look forward to the future. This summer, North Shore Scouts are attending one of the Chicago camps. With a month still to go this camp is already filled up for its first two periods.

The appeal of the Wisconsin northwoods with its chains of lakes and its unequalled variety of beauty is strong in the hearts of boys. Just as their dads are leaving on the fisherman's special now, and as they go to hunt and fish throughout the year, the day may come soon when Scouts clad in khaki uniforms, equipped with boots and knap-sacks, will be heading for Rhinelander, Eagle River, Lac de Flambeau, or Antigo, the route to the Scout Camp of the North Shore Area council.

The accompanying pictures taken by Scout Executive Walter McPeck on a recent exploration trip into the northwoods show some of the scenic beauty, something of the appeal of the wilderness and a glimpse of the logging days almost gone by.
