

Follow the Trail to INDIAN HILL ESTATES

By courtesy of the Mayors of Winnetka and Wilmette,
Indian guides will point the way this Saturday and Sunday, June 16 and 17

Two hundred and fifty years ago, Indians wintered at Lake Avenue and Sheridan Road, Wilmette. Here this week-end one of the descendants of these First Americans will point the way to their former village in Indian Hill Estates.

INDIAN HILL ESTATES has been developed for discriminating executive and professional people who want to live North — but not too far; who desire spacious lawns — but at prices not too high; who command beautiful homes — and, at the same time, sound investments.

Here are twenty-two Estate-Houses, ranging in cost each from $25,000 to $110,000 and representing a total investment of more than $1,069,000. This week, three new houses ranging from $42,000 to $76,000 have been begun by owners—a delightful Cape Cod home at $25,000 is being occupied—a new England Colonial has been sold for $33,500.

A few half-acre lawns with all improvements in and functioning, and four Estate-Houses of seven to eleven rooms are still available.

An exquisitely furnished home by Catherine Reckitt's House and Garden Shops, Inc., and an Indian equipped lounge room by Fred Leighton's Indian Trading Post, also await your inspection at the twilight hour any day this week or this week-end.
