

Whole World Looks to Chicago as 1933 World's Fair Looms

Only two months have elapsed since the enrollment campaign for Chicago's centennial celebration was launched, on April 19, and already the uttermost parts of the world have enthused at the prospect of another great World's Fair at Chicago.

Every activity in Chicago—commercial, social, industrial—is strongly represented in the World's Fair legion, and for many miles around have come enrollments from people who believe that Chicago is destined to be the greatest city in the world.

More than 5,000 famous poster artists all over the world are already entered in the contest to produce the official World's Fair posters. Robert B. Harshe, director of the Art Institute of Chicago, sent the details of the contest to every poster artist known to the Art institute.

News services have sent by telegraph, cable, and mail, the details to every nation in the world. Seventy-five art magazines in Europe, besides scores on the Western continent, are also inviting competition.

Harvey Wiley Corbett, of New York, chairman pro tempore of the centennial architectural commission, announces that the best brains of the world are being invoked to make the celebration an architectural triumph.

This, declares Mr. Corbett, includes architects, sculptors, artists, and craftsmen in general whose efforts will contribute to an unrivaled ensemble.

Twenty or more national groups in Chicago have already organized in behalf of the centennial, enrolling in the World's Fair legion and also preparing for excellent exhibits from their native governments.

Chicago will be the mecca for the world in 1933. World conventions embracing scores of activities will assemble in the city which was a frontier trading post less than 100 years ago.

Miss Mary Fowler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Fowler of Kenilworth, had as her guest for the past week, Miss Jane Spencer of St. Louis.

Christian Science

"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, June 17.

The golden text was from Psalms 95:6, 7, "O come, let us worship and bow down: let us kneel before the Lord our maker. For he is our God; and we are the people of his pasture, and the sheep of his hand."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God . . . All things were made by him; and without him was not anything made that was made" (John 1:1, 3).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "God creates and governs the universe, including man. The universe is filled with spiritual ideas, which he evolves, and they are obedient to the Mind that makes them" (p. 295).
