Veteran Botanist Retires From Post at Northwestern

Dr. Charles Beach Atwell, professor of botany at Northwestern university, has retired from active teaching after having served as a member of the university's faculty for almost fifty years. He is the oldest member of the faculty in point of service.

Dr. Atwell became an instructor in mathematics and physics in Northwestern University academy in 1880. He was then a young man of 25, and only recently graduated from Syracuse university. Evanston was little more than a village then, and there was a wild onion patch where the Wilson avenue district now is. Elevated trains were unknown.

Two years later Dr. Atwell became principal of the public schools of South Evanston, but he returned to Northwestern in 1884 as an instructor in natural science. He became professor of biology in 1891 and professor of botany in 1894. From 1909 to 1911, and from 1919 to 1921, he was city forester of Evanston.

Sister Petronilla and Sister Margaret Mary of St. Joseph Mercy hospital, Sioux City, Iowa, are guests of Dr. Rosanna N. McKenney in her home at 752 Foxdale avenue.

Miss Marguerite Doyle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Doyle, 680 Locust street, left Saturday for camp We-Hakee, at Marinette, Wisconsin, where she will spend the summer.

Foregoes Trip to Russia Because of Home Business

In view of the misunderstanding with respect to his decision not to go to Russia this summer as one of a party of American educators inspecting Russian schools and colleges, President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university this week issued the following statement:

"Prof. K. E. Richter of New York university invited me to be a member of a group to visit the educational institutions of Russia during the present summer. This I accepted conditionally, with great pleasure. It was my assumption at that time that no pressing responsibility would keep me in Evanston during the present summer. Most important work has arisen such that it is impractical for me to go to Russia at this time. Furthermore, health conditions in the family make it impractical for Mrs. Scott to go.

"I was in no way deterred from going because I had been informed that the Soviet Government would expect from me a favorable report on conditions in Russia. From the very beginning I assumed that those who were responsible for inviting us to Russia hoped that favorable reports would be made. My understanding is, however, that no special obligations were to be imposed upon us."

Miss Jean Armstrong is entertaining Miss Elizabeth Rudel of Montreal, Canada, for two weeks in her home at 365 Sheridan road.
