

Hines Named Head of Fair Lumber Division

Edward Hines of Evanston has been put into charge of the lumber division of the Chicago World's Fair Centennial celebration in 1933, one of the chairmen of industrial, commercial, professional and financial divisions now organizing. Thirty-two activities are now at work in the enrollment campaign under Stuyvesant Peabody. Mr. Hines represents Evanston on the committee.

Movies in Making to Be a Feature of Annual Rodeo

With the Attorney General of New Mexico, and a foremost screen star from California vying in calf-roping contests, with other two-hand cowboys, the Chicago Rodeo offers all-American interest for July 28 to August 5 when it is held at Soldier Field.

Just to prove that "the sport is the thing" and not the $33,000 cash purses put up, Bob Dow, the cowboy Attorney General of New Mexico, who has a ranch near Roswell, that state, is coming to Chicago to rope. And Hoot Gibson, film favorite cowboy, is trying to get his movie contract modified so that he can enter the calf-roping and relay racing. In addition to these well known men are more than a hundred contestants who punch cattle for a living.

Hoot Gibson is coming to Chicago to make his next photoplay, a rodeo story, against the background of the Chicago Rodeo. In it he finds the genuine, atmosphere and large scale spectacle required for his picture. Spectators at the rodeo will have a chance to see the great motion picture being made.

Tex Austin, managing director of the Chicago Rodeo has obtained the buckingest bronks, the saltiest wrestling steers, the wildest Brahma riding steers, and a band of wild horses to test the human contestants' skill to the limit.

This is the fourth annual Rodeo to be held on the lake front, and the cowboys believe that the public in this region has been seasoned to an understanding that this is a contest and not an exhibition. It is the cowboys' Olympic games, their world's series. Posting of the largest total of rodeo

Northwestern U. to Have Building for R. O. T. C. Unit

Construction work was started last week on a new $75,000 2-story brick building on the Evanston campus of Northwestern university which will be used primarily as the headquarters of the military unit, the R. O. T. C. It will also relieve the pressure for class rooms in the college of liberal arts.

The new building, which will be 90x43 feet, will have five class rooms and two offices on the first floor and four rooms and five offices on the second. It will be built just 19 feet north of Fisk hall on the lake front, and will be ready for occupancy when the fall term opens in September.

Some seventy classes in the college of liberal arts have not been assigned rooms for next year because of lack of space, but the new building will take care of all of these.

Both the military and naval units of the R. O. T. C. at Northwestern university will have buildings of their own when this new structure is completed. The Navy Building on the lake front was completed last September. It was the original intention to call the new building for the military department the Army Building, but inasmuch as it will be used by the college of liberal arts in the emergency, it will be named Emergency Hall.

Should the building not be finished when the fall term opens, classes will be accommodated temporarily in the Garrett Biblical Institute.

purses offered this year have brought entries from the top-hands. Railroads centering here, anticipating record crowds, have arranged extra train service for the period of the Chicago Rodeo.
