

PLAN OFFICIAL COURSE

North Shore Outboard Motor Association to Lay Out Two-Mile Route

Outboard motor enthusiasts, who organized the North Shore Outboard Motor association a month ago, are taking their boats more and more seriously and are now planning to lay out an official course so that they may have official races under the rules of the American Outboard Motor association, of which they are a chapter.

With that accomplished their ambition is to break the world's record for outboard racing. Several of the members have powerful enough boats for the test and will aim for the record of 38.4 m. p. h.

Details for the official course and future races were to be decided this week at a meeting called by Franklin Cook, secretary.

Their official course, he explains, will be two miles long and will be laid down off the coast guard station. The club plans to schedule a ten-mile race to be run under the official rules for sometime within the next two weeks, it is expected, and this will draw contestants from the entire north shore as well as the club members.

For the time trials in which the members will try to better the record a one-mile course will be marked out. Boats will travel this six times and they will be clocked for the average time on a lap. Those who expect to enter the trials are Robert Rickson, Horace Carver and Jim Roloson, who all have Elto-Quad motors.

Results of the July Fourth races among the club members were: Class B—Jo Brubaker in Bull Frog, first; Randell Cook, second; Clarence Zillmer, third. Class C—E. J. Horejis, first; Carl Yost, second; J. Kroger, third. Class D—Robert Rickson, first; C. H. Freund, second, in Kaehler's Dunphy runabout; E. J. Horejis, third.

The grounds are part of the plan

WHEN you are about to build, you call in an architect, who prepares the plans in detail before a brick or stone is laid. Similarly the landscape gardener should be consulted early in the progress of the work. His co-operation will be found valuable in working out a harmonizing plan of building-and-grounds to bring about a pleasing combination between the two. His part of the job will then be scheduled for performance with the object of completion of the landscaping by the time the house is read for occupancy.
