

Geological Classes to Meet in Canoes at Lake Superior

Canoes will constitute the class room of a party of sixteen student geologists that will leave here next Thursday for an all-canoë geological field trip in the Lake Superior region. Prof. U. S. Grant and Prof. J. T. Stark of the department of geology and geography of Northwestern university will conduct this unique summer course in geology.

The members of the class will be away from civilization four weeks. After outfitting at Ely, Minn., they will travel by canoe eastward through lakes along the international boundary between Minnesota and Ontario and circle back to Ely.

The course will be devoted largely to a study of the Pre-Cambrian geology of parts of the Lake Superior region, especially northeastern Minnesota and adjacent parts of Ontario. Students will be trained in methods of geological field work and in detailed mapping of selected areas. A day will be spent at the head of Lake Superior, where intrusive and extrusive Keweenaw rocks, Lake Superior sandstone, old lake beaches, ore docks and the like will be studied, as well as the great fault on the south side of the Lake Superior basin. The productive part of both the Mesabi and Vermilion iron ranges will be visited.

Of the sixteen students in the party, half of them will be graduate students doing advanced work in geology. Three of them have their master's degrees now, and one a Ph. D. Besides Northwestern, Cornell university, the University of Rochester (N. Y.), the University of Illinois, Hamilton college (Clinton, N. Y.), and the Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical College will be represented.

GARBAGE CAN IN GROUND

Place your refuse in the ground—another type of refuse disposal now on the market. It is a container of galvanized iron, insulated and placed in the ground. The cover can be lifted by merely touching a lever with the foot. It closes when the foot is removed.

PARIS LOOKS GOOD!

The North Shore Real Estate Board has been functioning without its president, Lewis T. Dodd, whose thoughts are far away from real estate. Mr. Dodds is touring Europe, but just to show he hasn't forgotten the North Shore he sends a card which reads:

"We are just back from Italy and Paris looks good to us."

A native of Scotland, Mr. MacMurchy was sixty-three years old at the time of his death. Upon his retirement from business four years ago he was one of the best known experts in the carpet industry.

GAS FIRED BOILERS

A gas fired furnace which takes over the role of the stove is now an actuality in the small home or bungalow. There is a special stove or heater with a casing around it. Cool air enters at the bottom and goes out at the top of the room. No ashes! No trouble!

Miss Christine Baumann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Butler Baumann, 279 Linden street, is at home after visiting friends and relatives in California during the past two months.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bayless, 786 Locust road, are expecting Mr. Bayless' father, V. W. Bayless, of Dubuque, Iowa, to arrive next week to be with them for several weeks.
