Half of Population Has Ailments, Says State Health Head

Ranging from flat feet to carious teeth and from a goitrous neck to chronic appendicitis, every other person you meet on the street has some sort of physical impairment that ought to be corrected. This, at least, is the assertion of Dr. Isaac D. Rawlings, state health director, who points out that fifty per cent of half a million supposedly healthy people examined in New York during the last fifteen years were found to have defects serious enough to make correction essential to continued good health. At this rate there are now three and one-half million people in Illinois who need to see the doctor.

"Leaving sick folks out, every other adult person has some sort of physical impairment sufficiently serious to need medical attention," said Dr. Rawlings. "This conclusion is reached by the Life Extension Institute of New York which has examined 500,000 supposedly healthy people during the last fifteen years.

"Out of the whole group none were found to be perfectly free from defects. Ten per cent had only slight impairments while 40 per cent had moderate defects that manifested no particular necessity for medical attention."

TOUGH SCHEDULE LOOMS FOR N. U. GRID SQUADS

Varsity and Reserves Both Face
 Stern Competition on 1928
 Card

One of the hardest schedules that a Northwestern team has ever been called upon to face is in store for Coach Dick Hanley and his aides when they prepare for the coming fall football season.

Conference games with such teams as Minnesota, Illinois, and Ohio headline the schedule while at the same time Purdue and Indiana which have displayed surprising strength in the last several years can be counted as first class competition. The above five teams comprise the conference opponents which according to present predictions constitute about the toughest quintet in the conference for next fall.

Dartmouth, the Big Green team of the east will journey to Evanston for the finale of the season. Coach Hawley's team is expected to be one of the outstanding elevens in the east and will come west with the intention of adding another defeat to the one administered Chicago several years ago.

Early season games with Butler and the University of Kentucky are not expected to be of the easiest. Both these clubs have what is reputed to be their strongest teams in years and are bent on humbling their conference opponent. Butler opens the season here on Oct. 6 and Ohio will be here on Oct. 13. Then appears Kentucky the following weekend.

Added to the above contests will be a second-team schedule of five games in which the Wildcat reserves will meet Loyola University varsity, Notre Dame reserves, Illinois reserves, Indiana reserves and Carroll college varsity. This team will be coached by Herb Steger, former captain at Michigan and for the last several years an assistant coach at Northwestern.

Northwestern's schedule follows:
 October 6—Butler at Evanston; Loyola varsity vs. Northwestern reserves.

October 13—Ohio State at Evanston.
 October 20—Kentucky at Evanston; Notre Dame reserves vs. Northwestern reserves.

October 27—Illinois at Urbana; Illinois reserves vs. N. U. reserves at Evanston.

November 3—Minnesota at Evanston.

November 10—Purdue at Evanston; N. U. reserves vs. Carroll college reserves.

November 17—Indiana at Bloomington; Indiana reserves vs. N. U. reserves at Evanston.

November 24—Dartmouth at Evanston.

Round the... World CRUISE

Empress of Australia
 from New York, Dec. 1

This is the one with the eventful itinerary. Honorary fetes and dances here and there. The famous Christmas celebration in the Holy Land. New Year's Eve, as nowhere else but Cairo. Plum blossom time in Japan. Beppu and other ports new to world-cruisers—and all the old ones, too. It's an inspired itinerary—ask for it, now, while you can still get the preferred rooms.
