

It Must Grow!

SKOKIE VALLEY is a region especially favored for development in the immediate future.

Two factors make the future promising for those who buy acreage here now, while the market is right:

1. The limited area along the North Shore and the high price levels which North Shore frontage has reached.
2. Greatly improved transportation for the Valley region, including new electric extension and motor car facilities.

These economic factors are steadily increasing values throughout the "North Shore's sheltered countryside"—the Skokie Valley. Between 1920 and 1940 many North Shore towns will have doubled their population. With the Skokie offering every advantage of suburban life, the population in this area is bound to increase more and more rapidly, with an assured upward trend of values. Much acreage in the Skokie region is still priced within the range of sound investment.

Quinlan & Tyson, specialists in North Shore property for 44 years, recommend Skokie acres to you as a splendid opportunity for good living and investment.
