

Junior Red Cross Opens New Year of Intensive Activity

More than six and one-half million school children in 27,500 elementary and high schools throughout the United States, of which 600,000 children in 634 schools of the Chicago area, are included, will return to their Junior Red Cross work with the opening of school for the most intensive program ever attempted by the organization, according to Miss Verall D. Wright, director of Junior Red Cross work in the Chicago area.

Figures recently compiled show that every state in the union is represented in the Junior Red Cross as are the Philippines, Guam and Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Canal Zone, Virgin Islands and Haiti.

During the summer vacation this year Junior Red Cross members in the Chicago area entertained the ex-service men of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium and Oak Forest sanitarium, at a circus, the rodeo and the police field day. Regular programs were also held at the North Chicago hospital and favors and other party accessories were forwarded the men at the Fort Lyon, Colo., and Fort Bayard, N. M., hospitals.

The 1928-29 calendar for the Junior Red Cross covers a long list of service activities through which the children are taught unselfish service. The organization gained approximately 600,000 new members last year and 3,000 new enrolled schools. A like gain is anticipated for this school year.

Bellamy Players to Begin Season Here
With "Abie's Irish Rose"

Opening Labor day with "Abie's Irish Rose," the Rexford Bellamy Players will begin a season of theatrical offerings at the New Evanston, which has been closed for the summer.

The comedy-drama by Anne Nichols, which has been seen by hundreds of thousands of play-lovers the country over in its unprecedented metropolitan runs, offers those who have not seen it, or choose to see it again, the opportunity. The play will be offered at popular rates.

Rexford Bellamy is manager of the company of players which has just returned from a successful ten weeks' run in Nashville, Tenn., and which, previous to that, played 600 performances in two seasons at Des Moines. With the players is Ralph Bellamy, familiar as a player with the North Shore Theatre guild. Frances Norris is the leading lady.

"Abie's Irish Rose" will be produced under the personal direction of Augustus Thorne, Anne Nichols' general stage director.

SAVING TIME

in these days of rapid development is necessary. A good education, too, is pre-requisite and in order to save time educational methods are rapidly changing.

Is it not therefore wise, if one's choice of a profession necessitates years of additional study, to select a school whose methods are most direct and practical?

The Evanston Academy of Fine Arts has a two-year course which, through its modern method, produces what ordinarily took three or four years. This is saving time.

The regular fall term of nine and one-half months begins September 10th.
