

Adam Emory Albright to Reside in Warrenville

Adam Emory Albright, veteran Chicago painter and former resident of Hubbard Woods, who has spent much time in California during recent years, has sold his Spanish house near San Diego and will make his permanent residence from now on in Warrenville, Dupage county, Ill.

The Albright residence in Warrenville is but a block from the picturesque church studio where Mr. Albright's sons, Adam Emory and Ivan

LeLorraine Albright have worked for three summers.

Mr. and Mrs. Albright say that they have tired of the west coast and think Warrenville the most beautiful place in the vicinity of Chicago.

The artist has been painting in the Fox river valley and along the Mississippi above Alton this summer. He will have a one-man show at the Chicago galleries soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Keep Clark of 780 Lincoln avenue, announce the birth of a son, George Whipple Clark, on Friday, August 31.

Future Home Sites

Reclaiming another section of the Skokie, out at the west extremity of Tower Road, Winnetka. In the upper picture is a veritable prairie fire, but under control, thank you. In the view to the left, cleared some time ago, the Winnetka Fire department is seen extinguishing a Skokie "ground fire." More splendid new home sites are being carved out of this section.

Simplicity

We use no magic in the laundering of your clothes. Women visitors to our plant marvel at the simplicity of the equipment and methods. They leave appreciative of the fact that a laundry is more than "a place where washing is done."

We show visitors a laundry just as clean and tidy as their own; equipment built on the same principle as that built for the home; people working as they would expect them to work in their own home; and laundry finished just as though they themselves were supervising it.

A simple policy built our business—
Quality Work day in and day out.

It is the cause of our continued growth, and the reason why 3,000 housewives give the weekly laundry to Bill, the Washington Laundry Man.
