

Many Strangers Fill the Ranks of Dick Hanley's Grid Army

It won't be long now. Oct. 6 these fighting Wildcats, who are now sharpening their claws on the practice field, will be facing Butler's husky eleven across Dyche stadium's 50-yard line. You won't recognize many of these faces for there are many new men on the squad, but you'll probably be able to pick out the Purple mentor, Dick Hanley, who is hiding up in the extreme right hand top corner. Next to him is Tom Stidham, then Maurey Kent and Waldo Fisher, all members of the coaching staff. Just as far away from his brother as he can get and still be on the top row is Pat Hanley. Below

Food Preserving Devices Function Famously If Housewife Employs Judgment

The automatic refrigerator has come to stay, and, since it is here to stay, it behooves the housewife to learn something about the use of the refrigerator, for it is true that the ice-box and the automatic refrigerator require a different treatment of the foods entrusted to them.

To begin with, there are two branches of this family: the automatic refrigerator operated by gas, and the one functioning by electricity. In choosing between the two of them it seems to be a case of paying the money and making the choice. Neither is absolutely perfect and the knocker can find something to say against the utility of either.

The advantage peculiar to this type of refrigeration is that it allows the housewife to buy a large quantity of food to keep in cold storage. Dainty little things for tea or vegetables bought once a week on the day they are least expensive in the market may be stored in the refrigerator. The storage chambers are at a constant degree of cold, and the cold is a dry cold, making an ideal condition under which to keep foodstuffs.

The most important point to remember is that, while the temperature of each storage shelf is kept constant, the temperature of all the shelves is not the same. The housewife should test her own refrigerator with a thermometer, placing the foods on the shelves in accordance with the temperatures.

If the lowest shelf is coldest, at forty-five degrees or less, use it for the storing of milk for the children, for meat, butter, and all creamy desserts and perishable foods that are likely to absorb other odors.

On the next shelf, where the temperature is higher by one-half to one degree, cooked foods and the less perishable desserts and beverages may be stored.
