Save Bushes and Trees, Forest Board Implores

Destruction of bushes and trees in the forest preserves by people seeking branches to decorate their homes and halls is bewailed by the Cook County Forest Preserve board, which sends an appeal to the people to be careful of the forest bushes and trees and assist in the problem of preservation.

"The change of color in the leaves is beautiful, but the beauty is to be preserved in the forest preserves and not destroyed," states M. S. Symczak, general superintendent. "The destruction about this time of the year is amazing."
