

WOMAN'S CLUB OPENS YEAR WITH LUNCHEON

this very delightful portion of the program and she was assisted by Mrs. Ballard Bradley, Mrs. Morton Cahn, Mrs. Francis Lackner, Mrs. Lawrence Onderdonk, Mrs. John Metcalf, and Mrs. Charles Sweet.

In the brief business meeting which followed, the president of the club, Mrs. Carl Zeiss, lightly outlined the policy of the club for the ensuing year and explained that it was intended to help women in their bewildering task of home organization so that church, home, and state might all receive their just share of attention and service. In brief, it is to be a "back to the home" winter, and toward that program a number of contributing courses have been planned.

The art and literature and educational committees are offering a series of six lectures beginning October 17, (in the Year book the date given was October 10, but it was found necessary to postpone that first lecture one week), on "The Art and Science of Home Making," which promises to be most enlightening. In midwinter they will sponsor a book discussion class and with the advent of spring there will be talks on "Home Gardens." All of these will be free to club members and are offered to non-members at a very nominal fee per lecture.

For those interested in child education there will be a most valuable course of lectures by Miss Ethel Kawin. The courts committee, which becomes increasingly more important as a factor in our civic intelligence, also promises valuable contributions.

Upon the close of the very limited business meeting, Mrs. Zeiss relinquished her position to Mrs. E. V. L. Brown, the chairman of the art and literature department, and the remainder of the afternoon was spent in rapt attention to the delightful program offered by Miss Jessie Harding, a reader of rare merit who until she recently established her own studio, was associated with the Anna Morgan school.

Mrs. Brown introduced the artist in most complimentary terms.

Miss Harding first read, "The Ship," a gripping drama in three acts by Sir John Ervine, which deals with the question of whether a son should choose his own life or follow in the footsteps of his father. The subject was of vital interest to all and Miss Harding's portrayal of the various characters was most convincing.

There is a tragic atmosphere to "The Ship," and appreciating the mood into which she had thrust her audience in the first half of her program, Miss Harding graciously offered in the second half, two very light sketches, a monologue, "The Art Enthusiast," and a bit of humorous verse. With such selections not only had our sympathetic understanding been enriched and our love of humor satisfied, but the reader had exhibited her rarer ability and her rare versatility in histrionic art.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Lutz of 460 Hawthorn lane left Sunday for a three weeks' trip to the Pacific coast. Miss Mary E. Lutz is again living at the Delta Delta Delta house in Evanston where she is a junior at Northwestern university.

TAKES POSITION IN EAST

Miss Katherine Sherman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Sherman of 1062 Ash street, will leave Thursday for New York City, where she will do family case work for the New York association for improving the condition of the poor. Miss Sherman has just returned from a summer spent in Europe, which followed her graduation from the University of Wisconsin. Miss Sherman is a member of Alpha Kappa Delta, honorary sociological fraternity.

5000 People Whose Sole Job is Bettering Your Service

THE very nature of the telephone business necessitates a single interconnected system. The Bell System accepts its responsibility for a nation-wide telephone service as a public trust.

It is the policy of the System to use all income, beyond that necessary to pay regular dividends and maintain a surplus for financial stability, to improve and extend the service. Because of the nature of the business, speculative profits have no place in it.

The Bell System maintains in its research, engineering and business staffs and in the Bell Laboratories 5000 workers—in a total of 350,000 employees — whose sole occupation is to improve the telephone art and to make these improvements instantly available throughout the nation. These workers are a guaranty of continued progress in furnishing the public a constantly improving telephone service at the lowest possible cost.
